"BILL" EASTERLY ON STAND AT BOISE TODAY

ORCHARD STORY LIKELY FISHY

Evidence Tends to Show Arch Conspirator Was Not Guilty of All He Confessed To

BOISE, Idaho, June 28.—"Bill" Easterly resumed the stand this morning and recited events in the Cripple Creek district resulting in the wholesale deportations.

He disclaimed knowledge of the Independence depot explosion or the Vindicator disaster. He said the mine owners' detectives urged the officers of the union to commit violence, but that the union refused.

He told how the union stores were conducted, and how needy were given relief during the strike.

The defense promises to spring sensations involving the operations of detectives employed by the owners.

The state recalled Dr. McGee, who declared he saw Orchard in Wallace in July, 1904.

Orchard testified that at that time he was in Denver, preparing to go to San Francisco to blow up Bradley.

McGee insists he is right.

Easterly took the stand after McGee and declared:

"After the Independence explosion I went to Victor, where I found the non-unionists denouncing the Federation on the streets and declaring the members ought to be hung. I fired with the others and after the shooting went home, got a Winchester and marched to Goldfield, where I found the miners armed.

"The union men were picked up by a Citizens' alliance. Three of us escaped and I returned to Denver and reported the incident."

Borah examined Easterly, who said Orchard told him he would get even with Steunenberg. He said he would not tell Orchard threatened Steunenberg because he was not an informer.

PUBLISHERS ON TRIAL

Answer to Charges of Criminal Conspiracy

CHICAGO, June 28.—Representatives of four Chicago newspapers—the Examiner, American, Record-Herald and Daily News—must answer to the charge of criminal conspiracy against newsdealers and The Tribune.

This was decided in a lengthy opinion handed down by Judge Fred L. Fake of the municipal court. He held that the publishers, business and circulation managers and other agents of the newspapers must be brought to trial.

Judge Fake, after reading his opinion, indicated in plain language that he would brook no further delay in the submission of evidence of the alleged conspiracy. The hearing began before him at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when the five complaining newsdealers testified.

Judge Fake decided another important legal question when he held that the corporations owning the four newspapers are as amenable to criminal prosecution in this preliminary examination as are the publishers and other managers of the corporations.

GREAT CARE IN SELECTION OF BOOSTER COMMITTEES

MEET AGAIN THIS AFTERNOON

Advertising Committee Will Likely Make Announcements of Their Selections Tonight.

"Hustlers, who will get out and do the boosting required, is what we want of our members of committees," said Mr. William Doerflinger, chairman of the executive committee in charge of the "Booster Button" campaign of the La Crosse Board of Trade.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon, of members of the executive committee, possible members of the sub-committees who will have charge of the active work in the campaign were discussed. Many of the workers have already been decided upon. Owing to the fact that a great deal of enthusiasm is being put into the work, and the entire city is going in for booster badges, the executive committee is not selecting members of these sub-commitees until assurance is given that the person appointed to the task is willing to serve.

Thus far the consent of all boosters chosen has been secured, and Mr. Doerflinger does not anticipate any trouble in securing the aid and co-operation of every downtown business pusher.

At three o'clock this afternoon, the executive committee will have another meeting for the purpose of completing the selection of committeemen, and names will be announced tomorrow.

When these committees are chosen it will be the duty of each member to appoint members of a separate committee which will serve under him. These men will have charge of the active soliciting.

SEEKS DEATH FROM SERPENT'S FANGS

Kentucky Woman, in Emulation of Cleopatra

UNION CITY, Tenn., June 28.—Rose Bloom, said to be from a prominent Paducah, Ky., family, is at death's door at Obion, Tenn., with her body swollen to frightful proportions as the result of an attempt to emulate the actions of Cleopatra, who is credited with clasping the asp to her bosom.

When doctors were called to attend Mrs. Bloom they found a live reptile in her room. She explained that she did not care to live longer and had secured a "spreading adder," a variety of snake whose bite is considered fatal. The woman had placed the snake in her corsage. She had been bitten several times.

HARRIMAN IS FINED

LONDON, June 28.—Harriman appeared aboard the Cutter Gresham, on which was held the board inquiry this morning. He paid the fine fixed by the board for violating the rules governing yesterday's Yale-Harvard race. The amount of the fine is unknown. The board is not allowed to remit the fine, so the matter is now up to the treasury department if Harriman wishes to fight it.

E. H. Harriman was arrested yesterday while trying to watch the Yale-Harvard boat race, and to make the matter more annoying to him, it was President Roosevelt's aide who took him into custody.

It was Mr. Harriman's desire to be as close to the racers as possible that got him into trouble. The contest had scarcely been started when he, in a powerful motor boat, started to follow the race. Lieutenant Billard and Crairman Schweppe, who were aboard the regatta committee boat, the Arrow, repeatedly warned Mr. Harriman to stop his engine and get out of the course.

Mr. Harriman not only paid no more attention to them than if they had been the interstate commerce commission, but took a position right alongside of the referee's boat and held it. Off the navy yard Lieutenant Billard signaled for a launch and tooted the revenue cutter whistle, which finally caused Mr. Harriman to look around.

"You are under arrest, sir," shouted Lieutenant Billard. "You will give yourself up to this man, who will take you aboard the Gresham to await my orders."

Then it was discovered that the man in the powerful and speedy boat was Mr. Harriman.

THE EVOLUTION OF A MAJOR LEAGUER

JUDGE REID MAY BE COMMISSIONER

PUBLICATION OF WATERWAYS BILL MAKES IT LAW AT LAST

THE GOVERNOR WAS IN DOUBT

Reid Was Called on to Explain Measure and Governor Became Convinced

MADISON, Wis., June 28.—(Special).—The signature of the governor and the publication in the Wisconsin State Journal tonight, as the official state paper, makes the Owen-Reid bill a law. It was some time before the governor signed the measure and asked for a full explanation of what it might accomplish before he would affix his approval.

Judge Reid has been in the city a few days past and gladly gave the executive the desired information. The bill was signed and deposited with the secretary of state late Thursday evening. It was delivered to the official paper for publication this morning, thereby placing it into immediate effect.

This bill has received a stubborn fight in the legislature and was even refused recognition by the assembly committee on state affairs for some time. Finally a hearing was given before the joint committee on state affairs at which appeared Congressman Esch, ex-Speaker Lenroot, Judge Reid, Thaddeus Pound of Chippewa Falls and others. The members had began to catch the idea. When it came up before the committee on claims, a short argument was made and favorably recommended it then went hastily through the legislature. The bill carries with it an appropriation of $5,000 a year for the water commissioner's salary and $1,500 for the stenographer. The law shall be in effect for three years and the commissioner is allowed reasonable expenses.

The work to be accomplished by this measure is the taking of testimony and interesting the people of the state in utilizing the waters of the navigable rivers of the state, including the Mississippi. It is believed, that while feasible means of using the river, probably by the German cable system are being investigated, the public will be educated by the data gathered showing how the inauguration of the cable system will materially reduce rates on bulky materials, as coal and steel. In this manner congress will be brought into touch with the movement and it is believed the national government wil order the installation of the system which it is estimated will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 or more.

At the present time attention is directed to the question as to who will be appointed water commissioner and there seems to be a sentiment here that the toga will go to Judge Reid who has spent much time investigating the question.

WILL PROTEST SALE OF EDDIE

LENNON OF ST. PAUL WANTED STAR BASEMAN

TELEPHONED ELLIOTT TODAY

Claims to Have Had First Claim on Local Man and Says He Will Contest the Sale

It is now probable that the sale of Eddie Konetchy of the La Crosse Baseball association to the St. Louis National league team, will be contested by President Lennon of the St. Paul American Association club. Mr. Lennon has notified the local association that he will contest the sale on the grounds that he had first claim.

He called up President Elliott over the phone this morning, asking if the report was true that Konetchy was sold, and when informed that it was said he would enter a protest to the national association. The association had made a proposition to Mr. Lennon quoting Eddie at $1,000 if taken at once and $500 at the end of the season. No reply was received to the letter until this morning when Mr. Lennon called over the phone. He was seemingly quite wrought up over the matter.

Roosevelt Will Look Into Telegraph Relationships

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—In accordance with the instructions of President Roosevelt, Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith is arranging for an immediate investigation of the relationes between the telegraph companies of the United States.

This investigation will be conducted in such a manner as to avoid giving any company or official the privilege of immunity from prosecution in case a violation of the law should be discovered. The investigation will determine the nature and extent of the agreements existing between the telegraph companies, the rate of wages paid to employes, the operating expenses, and such other data as will be useful to the department of justice in determining whether to institute legal proceedings, and to congress should that body desire to have the government exercise control over the telegraphic service.

TELL PROGRESS OF NEGRO

BALTIMORE, Md., June 28.—The progress and prosperity of negroes in this city was the argument advanced by H. W. Barrett, colored, of New York against the "Jim Crow" law in force throughout the greater part of the south.

"Druid Hill avenue, a broad, handsome street two miles long, lined with fine three story houses with marble steps, all owned by negroes, is one of the tributes to the progress of the race in this city," said Barrett, who represents a large New York corporation promoting negro stores, banks, factories, and insurance companies in the interest of the negro race.

"The negro owns Druid Hill avenue and Robert, Division, and other streets in this city. We have a large store of our own in North Eutaw street controlled entirely by our people. These industries you must patronize, because the time is coming when it will be impossible to obtain the things you wish from the whites."

KONETCHY'S FINAL ADDRESS TO FANS

BIG FIRST SACKER MAKES AN IMPRESSIVE SPEECH

ACCEPTS TOKENS OF REGARD

On Eve of Departure Eddie Proves That He Is Not Only a Ball Player, but an Orator

It was an inspiring moment. The great grandstand fluttered with the handkerchiefs of fair women, like a monster snow-ball bush in a variable wind. Sane and hard-headed men shouted themselves hoarse. The bleachers went mad in wild demonstration.

A magnificent boquet of gorgeous flowers was handed to Eddie, the hero of the hour. The page faded away, and behind came another, bearing on a silver tray a great diamond which, under the illuminating rays of Old Sol, burned in a rainbow medley of colors before the delighted eyes of the great first-sacker. There was a presentation speech, and in a moment the goods were delivered, and Konetchy stood red-handed in the acceptance of trophies that called for oral utterance.

Pandemonium reigned. The players from field and bench crowded about the first citizen. The tumult from the grand stand increased. The bleachers flung confused waves of demoniac sound dashing against the rocks of Granddad, only to be hurtled back through resounding space to wallow in exultant echoes on the links of the Schaghticoke Country club.

With his mighty left mitt lifted on high in restraining gesture—commanding, dominant, regal—Eddie stayed the frenzied populace as he would quell a rebellious grounder. Silence fell like the spell of death. With impressive voice and earnest mien, while the reporters in the press box craned their necks to catch his every syllable, that heroic figure advanced a single step, and with ringing voice Konetchy launched into his final address to the fans. He spoke as follows:

"Thanks!"

TIES UP CAR LINE

Moline Mayor Takes Action in Traction Dispute

MOLINE, Ill., June 28.—The Moline, East Moline and Watertown Interurban line was stopped by Mayor Johnson of East Moline yesterday from operating cars through this city because the company had not acted as promptly as expected on the terms of a franchise ordinance. Peace was patched up just in time to carry workmen from the Rock Island roads shops at Silvis and the factories of East Moline to their homes at night. The concessions made by the company are not made public. East Moline, which became a city only two months ago has asked the company to pay $10,000 now and $1,000 a year for nineteen years in return for a twenty-year franchise.

WHAT IS SCOTCH WHISKEY? DO TELL

GOVERNMENT AT SEA, AND PURE FOOD MEN MUST SAY

IT NEVER SEES SCOTLAND

It is Made Any Old Place and Everythings Is in the Label—Or Has Been So Far

Washington Bureau of
The La Crosse Tribune.
Washington, D. C., June 28.

What is Scotch whisky?

Can whisky be Scotch whisky if it never saw Scotland?

The highest court in Great Britain is hopelessly split on these two questions, and now they have been put up to the whisky court of the United States—the pure food law board.

Nobody who ever tested the stuff needs to be told that all kinds of things made in all sorts of places other than Scotland, are sold as Scotch whisky. Under the pure food law it is now up to the authorities to decide, once for all, what is and what is not Scotch whisky; and they are finding out some curious things about it.

In the first place, although Scotch whisky is a very, very ancient institution, there has never been a final judicial decision as to what it is. In the famous Fordham case the London police court made a finding, but when that finding went to the court of general sessions the struggle was too much. The chief justice of general sessions finally declined to sit in the case, and on his recommendation, in which his colleagues concurred, the case was allowed to go over in order that it might be tried before a different bench. The first court was so hopelessly divided on it that the justices agreed that no decision they might reach would be of any value, and it was probable that a majority of them could not agree on any single feature of a definition.

But in the London police court, from which the case had gone up, it was held that Scotch whisky must be made in Scotland and entirely from male. And this is the only judicial decision on the question now extant.

Among the products which are brought into this country as Scotch are some which are declared to be entirely malt, and Scotch made; others which are made from 30 per cent malt and 70 per cent maise, and made in England instead of Scotland: and there is everything between these two. Then there is an ample supply of whisky called Scotch, but made in this country. Who gets the use of the word "Scotch" on the label? That's the question.

The pure food board has just had a desperate struggle with Mr. E. J. Cantin of New York, importer of Scotch and other whiskies, who protests that until there is a definition of Scotch whisky, no order to issue restricting the use of the name and denying it to articles that have long borne it. He wants the American authorities to wait till the English court of general sessions decides the Fordham case, and this is likely to be done. Then there will be a definition of Scotch whisky.

MATCH ON OPERATION

Girls Flip Coins to See Who Is Cut First

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 28.—"Let's match pennies," said Dorothy Snyder, and Emma, her sister, agreed. It was to see which one should go to the operating table first in a hospital.

The pennies were thrown on the bedclothes, and as the result Emma was operated upon first.

The sisters, who live in St. Anthony Park, were stricken with appendicitis Wednesday. Dorothy's operation immediately followed that of her sister. Both are doing well.

CLARENCE BRANAGAN VICTIM

Fell From Bank of River While Fishing and Boy Companion Could Give No Succor

Louis Schuman of Third street between Pearl and King streets, is in line for a Carnegie hero medal. Only prompt action on the part of Mr. Schuman yesterday saved the life of Clarence Branagan, 415 South Third street, the lad falling into the river and going down in twenty feet of water for the third time.

The Branagan boy, aged 14 years, was fishing with another boy back of the Segelke Kohlhaus sash and door factory yesterday afternoon. The boy was sitting on a board which gave way and he fell into the water which is very deep at that place. The boy couldn't swim and his friend couldn't give him any assistance. Mr. Schuman was nearby and happened to catch a glimpse of young Branagan when he went down for the third time. He dove into the water, directly in front of where the boy had gone down, came up with the lad and brought him to shore.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.—A communication was received at the postoffice department from Captain O. W. The letters were found at the sailors' postoffice at a port of Mexico and forwarded to the dead letter office. Later Miller told Judge Landis in the chambers that he regarded the summoning of the oil king and his associates as mere sensationalism. The court announced, however, that he may excuse Rockefeller because of his age if the other witnesses give the desired information. This morning subpoenas were issued for three additional oil men.

Scotch Woolen Mills Co.'s Editorial

The Reason Why We Can Make You a $25 Suit to Order for $15,

Including a $5 Pair of Trousers or Fancy Vest Free.

There's no argument that a suit made to order fits far better and looks much nicer than one bought ready made. Every hand-me-down suit has virgin character. It cannot be altered without sacrificing its character. And you simply cannot buy a ready-made suit that will fit you first crack out of the box. It has to be altered. This is the reason why careful and successful men have a typical habit — they never wear ready-made clothes — mere guess-fits that look like a two-spot after the first shower of rain.

We'll allow it costs a great deal more money to make a suit of clothes to order than to "machine" it ready made. Then why is it that you have to pay elsewhere $25 for a ready-made when we make you a better one to order for $15?

When you buy a hand-me-down only $12.50 of your money is used paying the manufacturer's expenses in selling it to the retailer, freight, storage, insurance, interest on investment, very large credit risk, gamble in styles and the great cost of advertising it to the public.

The Scotch Woolen Mills Co. are manufacturers, jobbers, commission merchants, wholesalers and retailers all in one. There are no between-goers of any kind.

By our method we save a great deal of money. We eliminate the retailer, save his profit, never sell on credit, and manipulate our designs on paper according to prevailing styles (not eight months ahead), and then cut our woolens.

This is fair, isn't it? And that's why we make you a $25 suit to order for $15, and once in a while, when we have many short ends on our hands, we throw a pair of free trousers into the bargain. Isn't this plain enough?

Our sale of Trousers at $2.22 and $2.90 the pair, made possible by an accumulation of short lengths during the season, is the greatest bargain event of the year,

BEAUTIFY THE HOMES

La Crosse People Following Officials' Desire

Quite a little good work is being done in La Crosse this summer in the beautification of grounds around dwellings in accordance with the expressed wish of Mayor Anderson and the board of public works. To beautify the home surroundings does not always require the knowledge of a landscape gardener as much as it does energy. By applying energy and some thought as to the manner in which one would like it arranged one can plant out grounds in an attractive and pleasing way at so small a cost that every owner of a home ought to point with pride to his home surroundings.

The tenant or houseowner, who is anxious to make his property something besides a dreary spot and interesting to the eye to such a flower woman the cost lies mostly in the enthusiasm with which the work is prosecuted. If careful selection is made at the beginning, a few dollars will provide a garden capable of giving infinite pleasure for years.

The attractiveness of a home lies not in the house alone, but also in its surroundings. Take the humble cottage or a more pretentious mansion, its beauty is lost with rough and unsightly surroundings, but take the same house and surround it with a touch of nature, with flowers and shrubs in harmony, the different effect is wonderful. The location of the house and the size of the lot is an important feature on which much of the beauty of planting arrangements depends. The smallest bit of a yard affords possibilities of artistic effects as well as acres of ground.

Before a spade is struck into the ground study up what you are going to do and with what you are going to do it. A smooth green lawn is most essential to begin with and which forms the foundation of your plans. If you have a clay soil, a top dressing black soil or light loam is necessary, then seed with a good mixture of lawn grass and clover seed. If your soil is adapted for immediate planting, spading up is required before seeding. A good turf will soon be coming on and thin spots can be reseeded wherever necessary. In nature you will note two things, open space and trees in masses. The same principles should be applied in your plan for the front and back area of the house. Keep the center of the lawn open and the treatment of the space at the side depends on the space. Most houses, however, have only a narrow strip of planting space on either side. In this case, the best efforts are obtained by carrying the flowers and shrubs close up to the border around the sides. Where space is limited never plant in the center of the lawn, but excellent results are produced by using shrubs or flowers in irregular lines along the edges.

Ugly fences or bare walls are transformed by judicious vine planting. When vines are grown on frame houses they should be given support of some sort. Common chicken wire fencing is the best and cheapest for that purpose. This can be tacked on in strips, thus leaving space for circulation of air so the wood will not decay, likewise making it easy to remove when painting is required.

Remarkable Rescue

That truth is stranger than fiction, has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes: "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed cure for coughs and colds. 50c. and 1.00, at O. T. CAMPAIGNING AGAINST FIRE-TRAPS.

(Evening Wisconsin.)

The Ohio Inspection Bureau is examining public buildings in that state, with a view to the discovery of hazardous fire risks and the taking of steps to have them put into safer condition. The Ohio Fire Protection association is also engaged in similar work. Not only are all principal buildings thoroughly looked over and reported upon to the local officials or their respective owners, but the problems of water supply and fire apparatus are carefully gone into, and every effort made to have bad conditions bettered. When the city hall of Columbus was examined the inspector found it so badly wired as to be menaced by fire at all times. Improved insulating devices are to be installed at once.

The work thus progressing in Ohio might profitably be undertaken elsewhere. In every part of the country there is carelessness that permits the existence of conditions endangering not only individual buildings but whole neighborhoods. What is everybody's business, as the proverb says, is nobody's business; so these conditions often persist from year to year and usually go on from bad to worse. There ought everywhere to be vigilance on the part of fire departments and associations of underwriters in the performance of the same which is going forward

A SPLENDID ENTERPRISE.

Have you looked over the current number of The Wisconsin & Northwest Trade Journal?

If you have, and if you are discerning, you realize that in having created it Mr. W. E. Barber has done something worth while.

Careful and unbiased comparison between Mr. Barber's publication and a dozen others that come to hand leaves the impression that it is none the less excellent because it is new. It is ably edited, splendidly conceived, artistically arranged, scientifically printed. It is a complete, wholesome, progressive modern trade journal.

As a booster for La Crosse the new journal is of utmost value, and it is therefore entitled to not only the approbation, but to the support of La Crosse people. It is one of the influences that is helping to put La Crosse indelibly on the map. It it continues its fearless and intelligent course, it will be known over great areas as THE trade journal. And in carrying to its patrons a good word for its legitimate advertisers it must carry also a "boost" for La Crosse and all there is in it.

Those who know W. E. Barber will join us in the confident expectation that the Wisconsin & Northwest Trade Journal will become an ever increasing and expanding success. This is merely a prophesy that intelligent effort backed by sound judgment and tireless industry, will always win.

Upon its immaculate appearance, virile journalism and prosperous air we heartily congratulate The Wisconsin & Northwest Trade Journal.

CO-OPERATION

With the theory in view that "every little bit helps," the St. Paul Pioneer Press urges its citizens to "Get in and boost!" This in view of the progressive movement to advertise the city and create expansion in general. As this movement in St. Paul is contemporaneous with that in La Crosse, its progress is of interest here. Therefore we have been publishing with some freedom the comment of the Twin City papers. The "Get in and Boost" editorial follows:

"St. Paul should keep its eye on the Publicity Bureau and the work it is doing. The St. Paul papers are giving away thousands of dollars worth of space to boost the town, and a large portion of their time to preparig matter and to laying the foundation for the big national campaign which is to be inaugurated within a few weeks if the people of the city and especially all the business men take hold of the publicity project as the several business organizations which have so far been approached have taken hold of it. For the publicity campaign will require the same spirit of hearty co-operation that the auditorium project required, though it is to be, and must from its nature be, very differently organized and financed. Every one must put his shoulder to the wheel and boost when and how he can. This means not only the heads of concerns but subordinate officers and even minor employes. Every man has something at stake in the success of the project, no matter what his position, and every man can help to some extent.

"The bureau not only has one of the best conceived plans for effective publicity yet devised, but those who are directing its work are full of an enthpsiasm and a "ginger" which, if they have the support of the people of St. Paul, means unprecedented success. No city which has undertaken publicity work on any adequate scale, even when the methods have been haphazard, has failed to get results; but the most startling results have been obtained by those cities which have thoroughly organized their campaigns as St. Paul is doing and have put the business into the hands of experienced publicty men as St. Paul will do when the real campaign begins. St. Paul should go into this thing determined to beat them all as it did in its auditorium."

A FORTUNATE TRANSACTION

It is with mingled feelings of pleasure and regret that the "fans" of La Crosse are called upon to witness the departure of "first sacker" Eddie Konetchy. However, pleasure predominates, for the generosity of humanity will not let selfish dislike to seeing a good fellow and a good ball player leave the champs outweigh the genuine satisfaction over the fact that a deserving young man has gone up—way up—to the front rank of his profession.

Konetchy has been a splendid performer. Sure in fielding, always tall enough to pull down the tallest of the tall ones, a reliable and almost sensational "sticker." He has played his way into the hearts of the devotees of the game.

President John Elliott and his associates deserve much credit for having sold Konetchy in a way to put the boy into the major league without the usual struggle up through the ranks of the better and still better to the best teams, and at the same time to put a cool thousand into the club treasury. It wasn't a question of keeping him, for he had to go. He would have been drafted shortly, and to hold out longer was unsafe. There were many who, in view of this fact, felt that a mistake was made when previous offers were declined, but it wasn't a mistake, after all. The deal just closed nets the La Crosse treasury more than double the money involved in any previous offer.

The sale of Konetchy need not be looked on from the blue side. It will not disorganize the team. It is still the best team in the league. The boys will not have so much of a snap now. They cannot win easily at will. But they are still the champs, and will continue to be. They have been winning by good management, good fielding, strong hitting. They will continue to do so. And they have $1,000 in the treasury to insure 1908 baseball, a handy thing in this dullest of baseball seasons, from the box office standpoint.

As suggested by ex-Alderman Harrison at the "booster" meeting the other night, if there are any who are opposed to the campaign for greater La Crosse, now is the time to say so. And, as Mr. Holley said, if there are any they must be indeed daring to mention it, but there are probably none of them.

Stop the anvil chorus! Be a booster.
Don't be a knocker, even if you uster
You can't beat it knocking,
Every knock's a boost.
Boost against the time
When your chicks come home to roost.

The offer of a prize by the board of trade committee for the best design for a "booster button" is calculated to revive the popularity of that classical old game, "Button, button! Who's got the button!"

It may have been appropriate to give Eddy those flowers, but it was certainly indiscreet to give him the diamond. How can we finish the season without the diamond?

The Milwaukee Journal thinks husbands are happy because their wives gowns no longer button in the back. Who's happy over it in Pittsburg?

Another reorganization of the Panama canal commission is forecasted. Smothered laughter from the grave of De Lesseps!

5701 Misses' Jumper Waist, 14 and 16 years.

MISSES' JUMPER WAIST 5701

Jumper waists suit young girls so peculiarly well that there seems every reason for their increasing popularity. This one is made with loose sleeves that suggest the kimono idea and is finished with a prettily shaped band at the neck that matches the pointed girdle perfectly well. As illustrated the material is a blue and white cotton veiling with trimming of white lawn piped with blue. But while checks are being much used this season and are charmingly youthful and girlish in effect, there are a great many plain materials and a great many different fabrics which suit such a waist as the one equally well. Linen chambray and French gingham are both pretty for the more serviceable dresses, linen is to be found in a variety of weights and weaves and cross-barred dimities are to be much used and are very dainty and charming, and a whole host of similar suggestions might be made.

The waist consist of front and backs and is laid in plaits at the shoulder and gathered at the waist line. The shaped band is arranged over the neck edge and holds the fullness firmly in place and the short loose sleeves are similarly finished. The closing is made invisibly at the back and the pointed girdle is adjusted over the waist.

The quantity of material required for the sixteen year size is 2⅜ yards 27, 2 yards 32 or 1½ yards 44 inches wide with ¾ yard 36 inches wide for the trimming.

The pattern 5701 is cut in sizes for girls of 14 and 16 years of age and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents. (If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

"Necessity the Mother"

"There was a crowded meeting in Des Moines. The day was so hot that the great audience could hardly breathe. Suddenly a quiet but determined looking man surprised every one by exclaiming:

"I want to put a question to the speaker."

"Well, sir," good-naturedly answered the orator of the day. "I am here to answer questions. Go ahead."

"Then," queried the man, "what did Lincoln say in 1862?"

"An absurd question," responded the speaker. "Lincoln said a great many things in 1862."

"Never mind that," testily continued the man who had interrupted. "Tell me what he said in 1862."

At this juncture the audience began to show signs of displeasure, but the quiet man proved irrepressible.

"I again demand," he yelled, "to be told what Lincoln said in 1862."

This proved too much, and so the man was seized and ejected. A friends went with him, and when they were outside said:

"What on earth induced you to make such a fool of yourself?"

"Because," smilingly explained the quiet but determined man, "it was very hot and close. I could not breathe. I could not move. It was the only way to get out."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Moving Mules.

A story is told of Senator Knute Nelson, who spent some of his early years in a logging camp. He there discovered the necessity of certain emphatic language in order to make mules move. "All varieties" of tongues were in demand in that camp, Scandinavian, German, Italian; but none of the words used seemed to have the explosive force to adjust the tempo of the mule to the desired pace. Along came a strapping Irishman, who used some popular expletives, usually indicated in print by blank, blank, or — —. The mules moved!. "There's a language all mules understand," said the Irishman—"and it's not me mother tongue, ayther."—National Magazine.

"Yes, sah," said Sam, "I understand all 'bout dem dynamos and other things, but what I wants to know is how do the kerosene squirt throo dem wicks?"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"I can't do anything more. The end has come and it has brought the hatred and bloodshed that I have been trying to prevent. I played the game according to your rules, but they forced me back to first principles in spite of myself, and now I don't know what the finish will be. Tomorrow will tell. Take care of your uncle, and if you should wish to communicate with me, go to Cherry Malotte. She is a friend to both of us.

"Always your servant,

"ROY GLENISTER."

As he sealed this he paused, while he felt the hair on his neck rise and bristle and a chill race up his spine. His heart fluttered, then pounded onward till the blood thumped audibly at his ear-drums and he found himself swaying in rhythm to its beat. The muscles of his back cringed and rippled at the proximity of some hovering peril, and yet an irresistible feeling forbade him to turn. A sound came from close behind his chair—the drip, drip, drip of water. It was not from the eaves, nor yet from a faulty shingle. His back was to the kitchen door, through which he had come, and, although there were no mirrors before him, he felt a menacing presence as surely as though it had touched him. His ears were tuned to the finest pinpricks of sound, so that he heard the faint, sighing "squish" of a sodden shoe upon which a weight had shifted. Still something chained him to his seat. It was as though his soul laid a restraining hand upon his body, waiting for the instant.

He let his hand seek his hip carelessly, but remembered where his gun was. Mechanically, he addressed the note in shaking characters, while behind him sounded the constant drip, drip, drip that he knew came from saturated garments. For a long moment he sat, till he heard the stealthy click of a gun-lock muffled by finger pressure. Then he set his face and slowly turned to find the Bronco Kid standing behind him as though risen from the sea, his light clothes wet and clinging, his feet centred in a spreading puddle. The dim light showed the convulsive fury of his features above the levelled weapon, whose hammer was curled back like, the head of a striking adder, his eyes gleaming with frenzy. Glenister's mouth was powder dry, but his mind was leaping riotously like dust before a gale, for he divined himself to be in the deadliest peril of his life. When he spoke the calmness of his voice surprised himself.

"What's the matter, Bronco?" The Kid made no reply, and Roy repeated, "What do you want?"

"That's a hell of a question," the gambler said, hoarsely. "I want you, of course, and I've got you."

"Hold up! I am unarmed. This is your third try, and I want to know what's back of it."

"Damn the talk!" cried the faro-dealer, moving closer till the light shone on his feature, which commenced to twitch. He raised the revolver he had half lowered. "There's reason enough, and you know it."

Glenister looked him fairly between the eyes, gripping himself with firm hands to stop the tremor he felt in his bones. "You can't kill me," he said. "I am too good a man to murder. You might shoot a crook, but you can't kill a brave man when he's unarmed. You're no assassin." He remained rigid in his chair, however, moving nothing but his lips, meeting the other's look unflinchingly. The Kid hesitated an instant, while his eyes, which had been fixed with the glare of hatred, wavered a moment, betraying the faintest sign of indecision. Glenister cried out, exultantly:

"Ha! I knew it. Your neck cords quiver."

The gambler grimaced. "I can't do it. If I could, I'd have shot you before you turned. But you'll have to fight, you dog. Get up and draw."

Roy refused. "I gave Cherry my gun."

"Yes, and more too," the man gritted. "I saw it all."

Even yet Glenister had made no slightest move, realizing that a feather's weight might snap the gambler's nervous tension and bring the involuntary twitch that would put him out swifter than a whip is cracked.

"I have tried it before but murder isn't my game." The Kid's eye caught the glint of Cherry's revolver where she had discarded it. "There's a gun—get it."

"It's no good. You'd carry the six bullets and never feel them. I don't know what this is all about, but I'll fight you whenever I'm heeled right."

Oh, you black-hearted hound," snarled the Kid. "I want to shoot, but I'm afraid. I used to be a gentleman and I haven't lost it all, I guess. But I won't wait the next time. I'll down you on sight, so you'd better get ironed in a hurry." He backed out of the room into the semi-darkness of the kitchen, watching with lynxlike closeness the man who sat so quietly under the shaded light. He felt behind him for the outer door-knob and turned it to let in a white sheet of rain, then vanished like a storm wraith, leaving a parched-lipped man and a zigzag trail of water, which gleamed in the lamplight like a pool of blood.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Wherein a Trap Is Baited.

Glenister did not wait long after his visitor's departure, but extinguished the lights, locked the door, and began the further adventures of this night. The storm welcomed him with suffocating violence, sucking the very breath from his lips, while the rain beat through till his flesh was cold and aching. He thought with a pang of the girl facing this tempest, going out to meet the thousand perils of the night. And it remained for him to bear his part as she bore hers, smilingly.

The last hour had added another and mysterious danger to his full measure. Could the Kid be jealous of Cherry? Surely not. Then what else?

The tornado had driven his trailers to cover, evidently, for the streets were given over to its violence, and Roy encountered no hostile sign as he was buffeted from house to house. He adventured cautiously and yet with haste, finding certain homes where the marshals had been before him peopled now only by frightened wives and children. A scattered few of the Vigilantes had been taken thus, while the warring elements had prevented their families from spreading the alarm or venturing out for succor. Those whom he was able to warn dessed hurriedly, took their rifles, and went out into the drifting night, leaving empty cabins and weeping women. The great fight was on.

Towards daylight the remnants of the Vigilantes straggled into the big blank warehouse on the sand-pit, and there beneath the smoking glare of lanterns cursed the name of McNamara. As dawn grayed the ragged eastern sky-line, Dextry and Slapjack blew in through the spindrift, bringing word from Cherry and lifting a load from Glenister's mind.

"There's a game girl," said the old miner, as he wrung out his clothes. "She was half gone when she got to us, and now she's waiting for the storm to break so that she can come back."

"It's clearing up to the east," Slapjack chattered. "D'you know, I'm gettin' so rheumatic that ice-water don't feel comfortable to me no more."

"Uriatic acid in the blood," said Dextry. "What's our next move?" he asked of his partner. "When do we hang this politician? Seems like we've got enough able-bodied piano-movers here to tie a can onto the whole outfit, push the town site of Nome off the map, and start afresh."

"I think we had better lie low and watch developments," the other cautioned. "There's no telling what may turn up during the day."

"That's right. Stranglers is like spirits—they work best in the dark."

* * * *

As the day grew, the storm died, leaving ramparts of clouds hanging sullenly above the ocean's rim, while those skilled in weather prophecy foretold the coming of the equinoctial. In McNamara's office there was great stir and the coming of many men. The boss sat in his chair smoking countless cigars, his big face set in grim lines, his hard eyes peering through the pall of blue at those he questioned. He worked the wires of his machine until his dolls doubled and danced and twisted at his touch. After a gusty interview he had dismissed Voorhees with a merciless tongue-lashing, raging bitterly at the man's failure.

"You're not fit to herd sheep. Thirty men out all night and what do you get? A dozen mullet-headed miners. You bag the mud-hens and the big game runs to cover. I wanted Glenister, but you let him slip through your fingers—now it's war. What a mess you've made! If I had even one helper with a brain the size of a flaxseed, this game would be a gift, but you've bungled every move from the start. Bah! Put a spy in the bull-pen with those prisoners and make them talk. Offer them anything for information. Now get out!"

He called for a certain deputy and questioned him regarding the night's quest, remarking, finally:

"There's treachery somewhere. Those men were warned."

ICE TRUST NOT TO BE INDICTED

HENNEPIN COUNTY GRAND JURORS GET COLD FEET

CIVIL ACTION TO RESULT

County Officials Think an Indictment of This Sort Might be Dangerous Precedent

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 28.—The Hennepin grand jury has refused to return indictments against those ice companies operating in Minneapoli which it was charged constituted a trust, as being in restraint of trade.

The vote on the question of indicting stood nine to nine, and this disposes of the matter for the present. The jury's conclusion was reached late yesterday afternoon.

The point raised by one member of the grand jury who voted against the motion to indict, according to the attorney general's department, was that if the forming of combinations to control product and prices was criminal, then indictments wuld have to be returned against many leading business men in Minneapolis. He did not think it good business policy to start any trouble.

The knowledge that a portion of the jury was aware of a flagrant violation of the anti-trust laws and that the others refused to join in the motion to indict was a disappointment to the attorney general's department, and those instrumental in making the complaints. Assistant Attorney General Simpson represented the state at the hearing.

That a combination to maintain prices existed was admitted before the grand jury, according to Mr. Simpson. Several men formerly identified with the companies operating in Minneapolis testified that meetings were annually held at which the officers of the several companies were present and it was orally agreed at each to make a uniform price for the year.

Though Attorney General Young and his assistants refuse to discuss the matter, it is understood that the proceedings against the companies are not to be dropped by any means. A civil action may now result in which an attempt will be made to revoke the charters of the companies.

Mr. Simpson says the evidence is ample on which to base a successful suit.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER

Clues Found to Identify the Slayer of Girl

FARGO, N. D., June 28.—A new turn was given the assault and murder of young Grace Burns this morning when it was decided by the Minnesota coroner's jury that she had been killed on the Fargo side of the river. So far as known, she was last been seen late Friday afternoon by small boys on the Minnesota side of the river, but the authorities have some evidence which they refuse to give out, which led the jury to the conclusion that the crime was committed on this side. Pinned underneath her union suit was an account of the accident whch happened to the young Emerson boy here Wednesday night, when the latter was struck by an auto. Emerson has frequently been mentioned as the girl's sweetheart, and she is supposed to have treasured the newspaper account. Emerson will be asked to give what information he has concerning meetings with the girl, and the last time he saw her. He is about 18 years old. No arrests have been made and the utmost secrecy is observed by the officials.

SHERIFF IS HELD UP

With Two Guns Pointed at His Head He Turns

APPLETON, Wis., June 28.—With two revolvers pointed at his head Sheriff Michael Lockery was forced back into his carriage and compelled to drive off without looking around Wednesday afternoon.

Lockery was on his way to Medina to arrest a man for larceny. As he drove through the country he saw two men, both of suspicious character, by the roadside. One had a bundle under his arm which Lockery got out to examine. As he asked for it one of them, Bert Saeger, wah had just finished a six months' sentence at the jail here, leveled a revolver at him. As the sheriff turned the other man, believed to be Tom Cahill, of the famous "Boo" gang, pulled another gun. They ordered the officer back to the carriage, and said he would be killed if he did not obey.

Lockery was forced to give in and drove to Medina, where he organized a posse, which is now searching the woods for the two men.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

PRESIDENT OF DEFUNCT TITLE AND TRUST COMPANY JAILED

IRREGULARITIES ARE SHOWN

J. U. Barnes Accused of "Borrowing" Thirteen Thousand Dollars From Funds of the Concern

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 28.—J. U. Barnes, of Minneapolis, president of the defunct Minnesota Title Insurance and Trust company, was arrested Wednesday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by Assistant County Attorney John F. Bernhagen. He is charged with embezzling $13,000 of the funds of the company of which he was president. There is said to be a shortage of $150,000 on the books of the company.

The complaint was filed with the clerk of the municipal court. The most important allegation against Barnes is that that Minnesota Title and Trust company loaned him, its president, $13,000 through the medium of a "straw man." The date of the transaction, as set down in the complaint, is Aug. 28, 1906. It is said other charges against Barnes are likely to be pressed, including responsibility for another shortage of $12,000 of the funds of the same company.

The warrant was sworn out at the instance of the public examiner and the attorney general who brought the matter of the alleged embezzlements by Barnes to the attention of the county attorney. The arrest is the outcome of the action brought late in March by the bank examiner to have the affairs of the Minnesota Title Insurance and Trust company wound up. Many irregularities appeared in the books when they were examined by an expert accountant.

The former president of the trust company was unable to obtain bail last night, as none of the police officers had authority to set or accept bail on account of the circumstance under which he was arrested. Barnes was visited in his cell by his brother, A. W. Barnes, who brought him cigars and a few other luxuries. Neither of the brothers would consent to discuss the situation.

SOMEWHAT MIXED

(Chicago Record-Herald.)

An independent New York newspaper has been moving heaven and earth to obtain an up-to-date, serviceable definition or description of a "democrat," in the politico-scientific sense of the term. Many editors and statemen have wrestled with the problem, the last attempt being that of Mr. Bryan. All have failed to satisfy the challenger as well as a number of interested observers. There has been much talk about Jeffersonian versus Hamiltonian principles, but that is scarcely relevant. Mr. Bryan says that a democrat is he who trusts the people—but who is willing to declare that he does not trust the people? We are further told by Mr. Bryan that a democrat necessarily believes in direct election of federal senators, in equal opportunity, in the referendum, in half a dozen other things. But there are lots of republicans who believe in some or all of these things, and there are legions of "regular" democrats who do not regard them as essential articles of party creed.

As the discussion proceeds confusion gets worse confounded. State rights cannot serve as a test, since there are leading democrats, including Mr. Bryan, who would carry federal regulation and intervention much further than many republicans who are supposed to be Hamiltonians in the fundamental ideas of government. The tariff is no test, finance offers no touchstone; in short there is no current definition that can pass muster. This leads The New York Tribune to conclude that—

The term democrat stands, in fact, for nothing fixed and tangible. It is an out-worn symbol, and those who use it use it without any clear appreciation either of what it denotes today or of what it long ago ceased to denote.

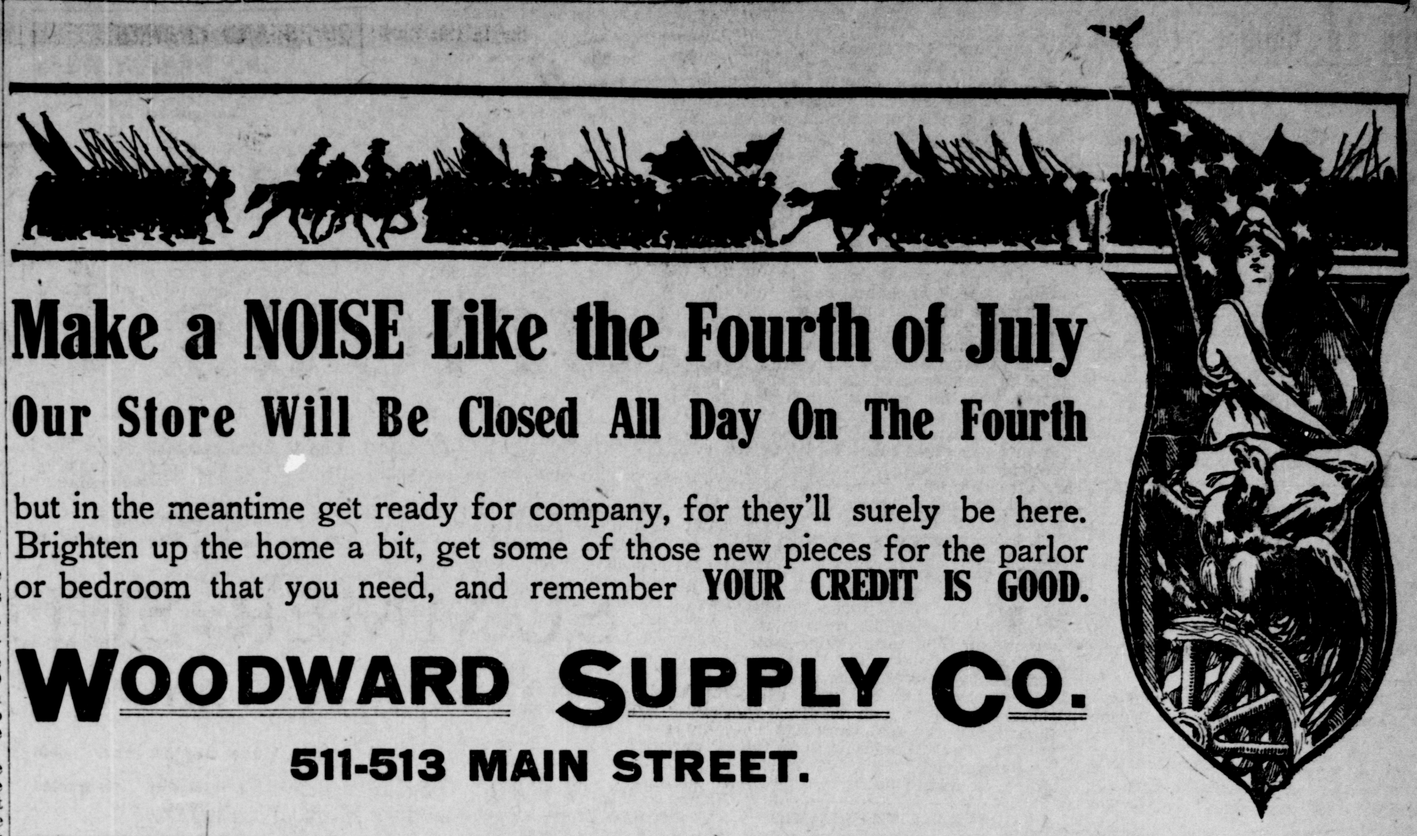

As a mere statement of fact this is unquestionably true. But in all candor, why limit the search for up-to-date definitions to the terms democrat and democracy? If the march of developments has emptied these words of fixed and tangible meaning, has it made no impression on the terms republican and republicanism? Will not the same sparing analysts apply their critical faculty to the other party labels? In the name of clear thinking and historic truth, let the discussion proceed and let us know what a "republican" is, what the present tests of republicanism are, and why it is that men like Aldrich and Foraker and Penrose have as much right to the name republican as Roosevelt and Taft, La Follette and Hughes and Cummins.

LAW NOT CONTESTED

RAILROAD WILLING TO GIVE LAW TEST

Manager of Omaha Says Enforcement Means Ruin

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 28.—There will be no contest of the reciprocal demurrage law by the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway, for the present at least. That practically means that there will be no opposition to the law by any of the railways in the state, as representatives of all the lines met last Tuesday and decided that all roads would pull together in the matter.

A circular has been ordered to be issued at the Omaha offices to all agents in Minnesota. This circular gives the law in detail and outlines to agents what must be done to keep within the bounds of legality. The circular is the offical announcement that there will be no oppositon to have the law go into effect as scheduled on July 1.

General Manager A. L. Trenholm of the Omaha road, said today:

"We do not intend to contest the law. The law will go into effect and we shall endeavor to keep it as much as possible. As long as we have cars to put into service, we will be glad to put them at the disposal of shippers. When the rush season comes, however, it is more than likely that there will be cases when it is impossible for us to get cars to some shippers as we will not be able to supply every one at the same time."

DROWNED WHILE SWIMMING

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., June 28.—John Bargan, a 12 year old boy, while swimming at Maple island in company with about fifteen other boys, about 400 yards below the dam, was drowned in an eddy where the water, though comparatively shallow, is very swift.

TO LESSEN COST OF PRODUCTION

OBJECT OF VAST IMPROVEMENT AT LISTMAN MILL

CONTRACT IS A RUSH JOB

Labor Saving Machinery of Most Modern Type Is to be Installed In the New Section

To cheapen the cost of production is the chief aim, in the construction of the new mill and the addition of new machinery in the plant of the Listman Mill company, for which contracts were let yesterday.

In every department of the mill expense will be cut down to a minimum and labor saving machines and appliances will be installed which in the long run will greatly cut down the cost of grinding. During the past two years, milling machinery has been so greatly improved as to almost revolutionize the methods of flour manufacture, and the company in making its new plans carefully took into consideration every change and appliance which presented itself.

As the greatest expense in the operation of a factory of this kind is the amount of labor employed, all machinery installed in the new building will be placed with a view to saving on this score.

Indicative of this is the coal unloading and handling machinery specified in the plans. Track scales will be provided for the coal cars, beneath which are coal hoppers. Coal will be received at the mill only in hopper bottomed cars. When the bolt is drawn from this hopper, the coal will drop to the tank below, and the car which still remains on the tracks will then be reweighed to determine the exact weight of the fuel received. The coal will be elevated by means of an endless chain to the coal bunkers above the boilers. These will be constructed entirely of steel and concrete, and have a capacity of 500 tons. By means of automatic chain grates, and over automatic scales which will exactly measure the amount of fuel burned the coal will be fed from these bunkers to the furnaces automatically.

Cinders and ashes will be discharged by the chain grates at the other end of the firebox, into a concrete pit, from whence it will be removed by automatic chain elevators to the ash and cinder receptacle which will be located above the boilers in a position to discharge directly into an empty car, when a sufficient amount accumulates. In this manner every pound of fuel burned has been weighed and accounted for, and at the same time no manual labor has been required in the operation. This well illustrates the principle of the entire plant.

Once in operation, the new mill will grind a trainload of wheat daily, and two trains will be required to haul away the product.

On the second floor of the mill will be located the roller mills. The floor above the basement will be left open for packing and shipping departments. Passenger lifts will be located in convenient parts of the building, for the speedy conveyance of help from one department to another.

Trackage facilities will be of the best. On either side of the mill will be located two sidetracks, where cars can be loaded so that eight cars can be unloaded and reloaded at the same time. Grain can be handed at the rate of 6,000 bushels an hour, from the cars. It will be weighed both on the tracks and on hopper scales after removal from the cars and will receive a third weighing in automatic grain scales directly above the first roller mills. This will insure a triple check on the weights in, and the product out, as every kernel of wheat is weighed in its passage in, and upon its passage out as flour. A daily check will be made in the afternoon, throughout the entire plant of the work of the past 24 hours, and a daily accounting will be required for every pound of material, with the exception of the estimate allowed for invisible loss.

The Listman Milling company recently established its own coopeage plant, and is now in a position to manufacture its own barrels in sufficient quantities and without the delay which sometimes comes from jobbing.

Total grain storage capacity will approximate 300,000 bushels. Flour storage capacity, or its equivalent in mill feed will approximate 15,000 barrels.

In thirteen years, since this company was under the present management, the mill has run constantly, regularly employed its full quota of help, and operated every department to its full capacity. The demand for the product of this mill exceeds its output. This demand and the desire to get the benefit of the most modern type of milling equipment, together with a more economical manufacturing cost, inspires the immense outlay which the present plans call for.

RIVER IMPROVEMENT

Contracts Are Let by Federal Authorities

At a meeting of the United States government officials at Rock Island Friday bids were opened for the government work along the Mississippi river and Capt. Kirchner of the steamer Percy Swain was awarded the contract for repairs from Davenport to Burlington at $40,000, while Capt. Fetter, of the Gardie Eastman, was given the territory extending from Burlington south to Quincy for $44,000. By these contracts the entire shore along the Mississippi river between the stated points will be riprapped and the dams repaired but still does not effect Muscatine's appropriation of $10.000 for a harbor.

The contract calls for certain work and brushwork and all improvements are to be made with a view of establishing a permanent six-foot channel.

Speaking of the purchase of the steamer Isaac Staples by the Iowa & Minnesota Navigation company, of which he is president, Capt. S. R. Van Sant says he expects great things in navigation in this section and is adding to his large line of boat holdings.

A number of improvements have been made in the Pickle and Canning factory this spring. A new engine and boiler, a new viner and several minor additions, tending toward better facilities for a large output, have been installed. A two-story building has also been erected at the east side of the factory to be used as a store room, etc. The concern has a large acreage of peas and corn, and expect this to be the largest output since the factory has been in operation. They will start canning the last of this week.

SOPHIA CAMERON GETS FINE OF TEN DOLLARS

WOMAN APPEALS THE CASE

Siwosky Recognized His Old Hen and Her Brood of "23" Without Any Hesitation

Although Mrs. Sophia Cameron had eighty chickens, of different sizes, ages and breeds, and had them in every shade, color and mixture, Mr. and Mrs. George Siworsky, together with members of the Siworsky family, yesterday afternoon were able to identify positively one of these chickens as their property. Mrs. Cameron was accordingly convicted and sentenced to a fine of ten dollars and costs, with an alternative of fifteen days in jail.

Sophia Cameron was charged with the theft of an old grey speckled hen and 23 smalll chicks. The hen and chicks were brought into court yesterday as exhibits and were held up before the witnesses for identification.

The case has been appealed.

Three things to commend—thrift, industry and promptness.

RAISES NOVEL QUESTION

SEYMOUR, Wis., June 28.—L. A. Stammer, a saloonkeeper here, has a fine legal mind. He has raised one of the most novel questions in the annals of temperance-saloon contests. Stammer was recently arrested for keeping open his saloon after 11 o'clock Sunday night. He will fight the case, claiming that the ordinance under which he was arrested reads "shall be closed each and all week days at 11 o'clock p. m." Stammer claims that Sunday is not a week day.

After July 1 only one saloon for each 250 inhabitants will be allowed in all Wisconsin cities. Neither can any man not a full citizen run a saloon. This is in accordance with a bill passed by the legislature at this session. State prison is threatened offenders. The law limiting the number of saloons is not retroactive, therefore scores of saloons were started in the state previous to the present time and since the bill was assured passage, in order to get around the new law.

WAR VETERANS MEET

MANITOWOC, Wis., June 28.—The United Spanish-American War veterans meet here next week for the state convention. Evans, a newspaper man of Racine, it is predicted, will carry the election for the highest state office in the gift of the veterans. Mr. Evans is a past commander of his local organization of veterans.

The Story of Father John's

Half a century ago, Rev. Father John O'Brien of St. Patrick's Parish Lowell, Mass., through overwork and exposure, became seriously run down. A cold and stubborn cough and lung trouble threatened his life. An eminent specialist gave Father John, as he was fondly called, a prescription to cure the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body. Father John was soon restored to his former health and strength, and he recommended the medicine to his parishioners and friends. Thus it became the family remedy in thousands of homes, and became known as "Father John's Medicine."

MURDERED GIRL FOUND IN BIN

MUTILATED BODY OF MISSING CHILD IS LOCATED

HAD STRUGGLED WITH SLAYER

Wounds and Fingermarks on Throat Indicated She Made Desperate Fight for Life

NEW YORK, June 28.—Kidnaped within a few yards of her home, strangled to death and her body thrown into a coal bin in the basement of the tenement in which she lived, was the fate of Viola Boylan, a blue eyed child of 9 years, who disappeared Monday afternoon from 2290 Second avenue, and for whom the police of the entire city had been searching.

No arrests were made, but the police believe the crime was committed by two Italians, who for weeks had been annoying little girls of the neighborhood, and who had tried to lure the Boylan girl into a wine cellar where they worked.

Tonight a mass meeting to protest against the molestation of little girls in the neighborhood where the murder was committed, was held in the Pocasset club in East One Hundred and Sixteenth street. Speeches deploring the fact that crime flourishes on the upper East side, just as it might if there was no show of protection, were made by several prominent residents of that section. Nicholas J. Hayes, president of the club, offered $500 for the arrest of the slayer of the Boylan girl.

The girl's body, whe found, was fully clad, but the clothes were torn and crumpled. The hair was matted and filled with coal dust. On the throat were finger marks and on the side of the face a wound. That the little child had struggled with all her strength was apparent from the wounds and the condition of the hands.

BALL BLACKED EYES

Dan Devorce Secures Arrest of Frank Leuth

Because, as he claims, he accidentally struck Dan Devorce, an aged resident, living near his home, with a wild pitched ball while playing with other boys in the field near his home, Frank Leuth, a son of Ed. Lueth, was arrested and brought into county court, today and arraigned on a charge of assault.

Mr. Devorce appeared in court this morning, with both eyes seriously blackened. The ball had struck him on the bridge of the nose, and although this was not broken the result of the blow was very painful. The victim claims that the boy threw the ball at him maliciously. Young Leuth plead not guilty to the charge and the case will be heard July 5.

BOSTON BLUSHES

Irish Mayor Talks Italian to French Captain

BOSTON, Mass., June 28.—A deep red blush of mortification spread a hectic flush all over Boston, all because Mayor Fitzgerald made a speech in Italian to a body of French naval officers, and revealed the fact that he didn't know the difference.

It was at high noon that Commander Carre of the French cruiser Chasseloup-Lebat, now in harbor here, made his official call upon the mayor, attended by a staff bedizened in gold lace.

The French captain, who was attended also by M. Falmand, the French consul, said some nice, complimentary things to the mayor in French.

Fires an Italian Broadside

His honor, not to be outdone, and wishing to prove that Boston culture knows no linguistic limitation, bowed, smiled, and said:

"Accolga I sensi della mia profonda riconoscenza."

The Frenchmen looked at each other, then at the mayor, and finally on the consul. Apparently they did not understand.

The mayor's private secretary, Field, nudged him.

"Sh'sh!" he whispered. "That's Italian you fire at them. These fellows are French, you know."

It was true. The mayor had sprung a phrase of choice Italian, which Secretary Field had drilled into him for use when the duke of Abruzzi recently called upon him. The mayor apparently thought what was good enough for a duke was good enough for a French captain.

This Time in French

Then the private secretary whispered several words into the mayor's ear, and his honor turned to the Frenchmen again.

"Agreez l'expression de ma profonde gratitude," he said.

This time the French commandant beamed. At last he had found an American public official with whom he could talk in his native tongue.

"Je vous rendez graces," he replied, and then he broke into a torrent of French that beat for speed anything the mayor ever said on the stump.

Mayor Fitzgerald was flabbergasted. He threw up his hands, and M. Flamand explained to Commander Carre that the mayor was not intimately acquainted with the French tongue—just knew a few words.

The French officer looked pained, and the rest of the interview, which was brief, was conducted through M. Flamand.

ICE FAMINE ADDS TO NEW YORK TROUBLES

STRIKE OF TWO THOUSAND ICE TEAMSTERS THE CAUSE

PUBLIC HEALTH IS MENACED

Ice Strike Follows That of Garbage Teamsters and Street Cleaners Will Quit Tonight

NEW YORK, June 28.—New Yorkers are facing an ice famine as the result of a strike of two thousand ice drivers this morning. They want their union recognized. The public health is menaced by garbage rapidly accumulating in the streets because of a strike of the garbage drivers who say that two thousand street cleaners will be called out tonight if the trouble remains unsettled.

The result of these conditions leaves the city in peril of epidemic disease. With the heat of midsummer approaching, matters cannot long be left in the present state without inviting disaster. The outcome is awaited with great anxiety.

FEDERAL CONTROL

Of Telegraph Lines Object of New Bill

CHICAGO, June 28.—Measures providing for government ownership and control of telegraph lines will be introduced at the coming session of congress by either Representative James McDermott of the Fourth district, Chicago, or by Representative William J. P. Cary of Milwaukee. Both congressmen are said to be members or former members of the Commercial Telegraphers' union.

Congressman Cary, in conjunction with Mr. McDermott, is now at work on a bill which will call for a congressional inquiry into the affairs of both the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph companies. This bill provides that government ownership shall ultimately be resorted to as a result of the methods of management which the companies are accused of practicing, not only with regard to their employes, but also in their relations with the public.

Congressman Cary still is an active member of the union. He is a republican.

PASTOR IS SURPRISED

Parishioners Observe Silver Wedding of Rev. Andersen

Invited to attend a reception held at St. Paul's West Avenue Lutheran church, Mr. and Mrs. R. Anderson, last night were greatly surprised to find that they had walked in upon a celebration in honor of the 25th anniversary of their own wedding.

Met at the door by a flower girl who presented the bride with an immense boquet, the venerable pastor and his wife of 25 years, were escorted into the church parlors where several hundred guests were expectantly awaiting their arrival.

Huge wedding bells were suspended above the chairs of the couple, and the rooms had been tastily decorated with smilax, ferns cut flowers and plants, presenting a very pretty appearance.

Numerous speeches were made after which the guests were seated at the supper board and an elaborate banquet served. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were presented with a large silver bowl filled with silver dollars, in token of the esteem of the members of the pastorate.

PLAN DRINK TRAINS

Railroads Prepare Boon for "Dry" Communities

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 28.—The Pennsylvania lines west will partially relieve the drought in a large section of eastern Ohio, where the "drys" defeated the "wets" in recent elections. Saturday excursions are to be run from East Liverpool, Ohio, to connect with Pittsburg saloons. The first excursion will be on July 2, the end of the first week that saloons are closed by law in Wellsville and East Liverpool. Excursions to Wheeling and Cleveland will also be run over the Pennsylvania lines.

LICENSES GO SLOW

Officials Do Not Expect So Many This Year

It is hardly possible that the saloon licenses taken out this year will equal the number of last year. Up to the present time only 100 licenses have been issued, and the time for securing licenses expires Monday. There are at the present time 156 saloons doing business in the city, according to the records in the office of Comptroller Fries. One hundred and fifty-seven licenses were issued last year and one was withdrawn.

HOW TO PROTECT SEEDS

All seeds that rats, mice or birds esteem can be effectually protected by coating them with red lead.

Place the seed in a vessel considerably larger than is needed to contain it, add to it a few drops of paraffin or water, just enough (not more) to moisten every seed, and stir it will; then add a small quantity of red lead and stir again until each seed is thoroughly coated and sceparate. Vermin will sometimes attack seeds thus treated, but disgusted with the result soon pass on to other fare.—Garden.

OLD MYSTERY OF SKIFF THEFT OUT

FRITZ CZARNETCKY ADMITS HE STOLE THE BOAT

HE SOLD IT TO SOME BOYS

Craft Taken From Spear Livery Last Year was Repainted; Some of Plunder Still Missing

The arrest of Fritz Czarnetzky for the burglarizing of the boat houses along the river front, has brought to light a stolen skiff which was taken from the boat livery of Joe Spear last year. During the summer of 1906 Mr. Spears reported the theft of one of his boats and the oars with it. Until the present nothing had been heard of it. The Czarnetzky lad has confessed to stealing the boat last year and turning it over to some boys in the south end of the city. The boat was repainted.

As yet the police have been unsuccessful in recovering all of the articles stolen from the boat houses. There are a number of things missing yet which have not been recovered, and the boys being held claim they do not know where the things are.

REPEALS "ANGUISH"

Assembly Finds Telegraph Companies Make Trouble

MADISON, Wis., June 28.—(Special).—The assembly last night by a vote of 52 to 21 decided to repeal the mental anguish bill recently passed by the legislature, because it had put so many people to needless inconveniences. The law imposes a penalty of $500 upon a telegraph company failing to deliver a message it has for transmission.

The statute was so stringent that a general public order was issued by the companies not to accept messages for persons living outside of cities. In operation this order forbade the agents of the companies telephoning messages and led to no end of trouble for many people. Assemblyman Bancroft led the fight for the repeal of the bill. He said the people of his country had already received sufficient inconveniences to demand of him that he attempt to get the law repealed. He cited the instance of J. H. Martin, one of the greatest raisers of red-poll cattle in the country, who said it had put him to great trouble by the enactment of the mental anguish law.

T. M. Thomas thought the law should not be repealed and in this he was corroborated by Speake Ekern. The bill was sent to engrossment, by a large vote and then pased.

$30,000 Mining School

A long debate was precipitated over the bill to appropriate $30,000 for the establishment of a mining school at Platteville, as a part of the university. Assemblyman McGregor explained the reasons for its establishment. He declared that the section was interested in the question of developing the mines. It was far better to have the school at Platteville, than at the university at Madison, for at the former place the students would be able to get first hand knowledge at the mines.

Assemblyman J. F. Baker opposed the bill. There was no crying demand for the expenditure, he said, and he did not like to see the university divided. He thought if the bill passed it would mean other sections would at the next legislature be grasping for pieces of the university. The measure was passed by a vote of 45 to 28. It now goes to the governor.

Raise Salaries a Little

After a long debate, which occupied almost all of the afternoon and was resumed after supper, the assembly passed a bill increasing the salaries of some of the positions of employes in the capitol. An assistant corporation clerk at a $1,200 salary and a clerk at $1,000 are given to the office of the secretary of state. One of the other changes was the raising the price of common labor about the capitol from $1.25 to $1.50. The policemen will get $70 a month. It is believed the bill will meet with considerable opposition in the senate as a number of the members have signified their intention to oppose such an increase.

One of the features of last evening's session was the calling of Assemblyman George E. Scott to the chair, by the speaker to take his place. Some one suggested to the speaker that a number of Barron county people were in the room and doubtless it would be a welcome surprise if their member were accorded this honor. When Mr. Scott was called the Barron county delegation gave him hearty applause.

LA CROSSE BOY IS THROWN FROM HILL

George Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Jackson, 905 South Fifth street, had a narrow escape near Cassville yesterday.

Mr. Jackson is employed on the surveying crew of the Burlington road and was on the edge of a hill, setting the transit when the ground under him gave way, throwing him about twenty feet to the bottom of the hill.

He strained the tendons in his leg and will proably be laid up for a couple of weeks.

The pearl is pure white and is said to be perfect in every way. It weighs twenty-two grains and is estimated to be worth at least $500.

BRADISH IS NEW CITY ENGINEER

APPOINTED BY DR. ANDERSON LAST EVENING

BAKER-NIEBUHR GETS WORK

Council Gives Local Plumbing Concern the Contract of Installing School Heating Plant

George P. Bradish succeeds W. S. Woods as city engineer. At the special meeting of the city council held last evening, he was appointed by Mayor Anderson, the appointment being unanimously confirmed by the council. Mr. Bradish, it is understood, was the only candidate for the office. He was prominently mentioned for the position when Mr. Woods resigned, as was Otto Mueller, the draughtsman in the office of the city engineer, but Mr. Mueller would not become a candidate. Mr. Bradish will assume his duties at once.

Heating Plant Contract

The council last evening awarded the contract for the installation of a heating plant in the Tenth ward school to the Baker & Neibuhr company, on recommendation of the board of public works. When the bids were submitted to the board all of them were above the estimate, the lowest bid, that of the Baker & Neibuhr company, being $1,872 above the estimate. The amount of the bid was $8,372.

Alderman Valentine introduced a resolution, which was adopted, to transfer $2,000 from the general fund to the building fund.

Other Matters

A petition was presented to the council by Alderman G. A. Keller, from property owners, objecting to the proposed laying of side walks on the south side of Roublee street from George to Berlin street. The property owners state that if both sides of the street cannot be paved they do not want the one side paved. The petition was referred to the street and alleys committee.

Alderman Valentine introduced a resolution, providing for the laying of side walks on Sixteenth and Pine streets, on Sixteenth street, and on Eighth and Johnson streets, on Johnson street, which was referred to the street and alley committee.

On a resolution of Alderman Grover, the board of public works was introduced to sell one-half of the old Tenth ward school building, the other half to be used for the bath house on the North side. It was asserted in the meeting that the board of education is not opposed to the removing of the old school. The board does not want the old building for a manual training department as the basement of the new school will be used for this.

COMISKEY IS COMING

Veteran Baseball Man En-route in Launch

The grand old man of baseball, Charles Comisky, owner and manager of the world champions, the Chicago White Sox, will soon pay La Crosse a visit, in company with a party of old time major leaguers. Mr. Comisky is now on a trip up the Mississippi from Rock Island in his trim little yacht, "The White Sox," on a fishing expedition in northern waters.

At the helm of the yacht is Captain William Brown of Keokuk, another veteran of the baseball world, and Tom Toftus, the former Chicago National manager, is in the party.

The launch is an ideal outing craft and is fitted with every convenience necessary for trips of this nature. There are two bunk rooms, a very neat and complete bath room, the kitchen and main reception room and dining room. The reception room is fitted with black leather cushions and will conveniently accommodate thirty or forty persons. A thirty horse power gasoline engine serves to propel the craft, which is not built for speed but for pleasure.

AUTO HITS A BRIDE

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 28.—Mrs. J. M. Hunt, who but ten minutes before the accident was Miss Buelah Cox, was seriously and possibly fatally hurt last night when the auto in which the wedding party was driving was struck by an interurban car while both were going at rapid speed. The auto was going from the home of the minister, who had just married Miss Cox and Mr. Hunt, and was on the way to a downtown restaurant, where the wedding diner was to be served. The couple was to have left for Charlestown, the groom's home, tonight.

MONTGOMERY IS DEAD

New Elbin Runaway Victim Succumbs at Hospital

Albert Montgomery who was injured in a runaway near New Albin, Ia., last Saturday and was removed to the St. Francis hospital died this morning. Mr. Montgomery was out riding when his horse became frightened and pulled Mr. Montgomery over the dash board. The buggy ran over him and he was picked up unconscious. The doctors advised that he be removed to the hospital, but a clot of blood had formed and although everything in the doctor's power was done for him he passed away this morning.

The funeral will be held in New Albin where his parents live. His body was shipped there this afternoon.

The advice to "keep cool" is particularly applicable in hot weather.

S.S.S. PURIFIES THE BLOOD

There is no other part of our physical system upon which so much depends as upon the blood. The muscles, nerves, bones, sinews, skin, and other portions of the body are sustained, developed and enabled to perform their different duties, because they are supplied with nourishment and healthful properties through the circulation. In various ways the blood becomes contaminated and polluted. A sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, will leave the refuse and waste matter of the body to sour and form uric and other acids, which are absorbed into the blood and Rheumatism, or some itching, disfiguring skin disease is the result. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, splotches, pimples, etc., all show that some humor has taken root in the circulation and rendered it sour and unfit for nourishing the body. There is scarcely any disease which cannot be traced to the blood. Often the disease-tainted blood of parents is handed down to children and their lives are a continual battle against disease in some form, usually of a scrofulous nature. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood troubles, and until this vital fluid is purified they cannot be cured. For all blood diseases S. S. S. is the best remedy ever put upon the market. This great medicine is made of roots, herbs and barks of recognized blood-purifying and building-up properties. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, impurities and humors, supplies the blood with the healthful properties it needs and completely cures blood diseases of every kind. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., because it purifies the blood. Book on the blood and medical advice free.

GREAT RACE IS WON BY OLD ELI

YALE GOES OVER LINE THREE QUARTERS OF A LENGTH

THREE OF THE CREW FAINT

The Regatta With Harvard Attended by 10,000—Never Clear Water Between the Shells

NEW LONDON, June 28.—In such a smashing, gruelling, headlong finish as stamps it easily the greatest contest ever fought by the two ancient rivals of the Thames, the varsity crew of Yale last evening beat Harvard's shell across the winning line by a scant three quarters of a length.

Spectacularly the race came very near to equalling that of yesterday off Poughkeepsie between Cornell and Columbia. From the college point of view it surpassed it a thousand fold.

The spirit that distinguishes the two American regattas cropped out in magnificent showing at the end when, Harvard careening across the finish line with three men fallen fainting from their seats, was cheered again and again by their triumphant opponents.

Yale Men Celebrate

Last night New London fairly rocked with the celebration by Yale students of the retrieval of last year's defeat and five hundred bedecked yachts in the harbor taxed their cannon with deafening salutes to the victors.

From the starters pistol to the very end the race was one heart-breaking struggle for an inch of gain. Rowed just at sundown, up river, through one long lane of vessels with 10,000 yelling spectators watching from trains on both banks, it was the most beatiful regatta picture of all those that have been painted on the bosom of the Thames. It came as a redeeming climax to a day of postponements and such gross mismanagement that the great crowd demanded something thrilling to appease it. That something came throughout the length of the four-mile course.

Close Race All the Way

Catching the water as though their sixteen oars had been bound together, neither crew allowed the other to lead by more than a length at any time, and clear water never showed between the shells. Even at the finish line with the strong New Haven team dashing across the line head in its last driving spurt, it could not forge a boat's length to the lead of the crew that could not have pulled a stroke beyond the line to save its life.

Yale Strong at Finish

Yale did not row the fast race that brought a meager truimph to Cornell in Poughkeepsie, but she rowed as prettily, and she might have cut the time by a half minute if necessary, so great was her reserve power in the end.

CHARGED WITH DYNAMITING

STURGEON BAY, Wis., June 29.—Joseph Sachbauer, an Austrian workman, has been brought to jail here, charged with attempting to dynamite the bank of Sturgeon Bay. While hilarious from the effects of liquor, Sachbauer unfolded his plot to one Frank Lyons. The redoubtable would-be bank robber told his "friend" that he had three guns, two rifles and a shot gun, together with fuses and the necessary explosives. Lyons, however, refused pointblank to join the bold plotter and told all about it to the police. Thereupon Sachbauer told Lyons to lay all the money he had on the ground and step back. In order to punctuate properly his order, the Austrian pointed a gun at Lyons. And, yet, Lyons took to his heels and got away. Sachbauser claims he was so intoxicated that he doesn't remember anything he did on the night when he felt so brave and Jesse James-like.

AUTO RACES ON AT ST. PAUL, MINN.

BIG RACE MEET WILL OPEN SATURDAY AT THAT CITY

MANY ENTERED IN THE EVENTS

Grounds in Finest of Condition for the Runs.. Some of the Events Have Been Eliminated.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 28.—Everything is in readiness for the automobile race meet, which opens at the state fair grounds tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The racing committee of the local auto club has been busy getting up the entry list and the list of officials, and the arrival of the professional drivers has been an important factor in arousing interest among the followers of the auto game.

Several important changes have been made in the program. One is in changing the time when the twenty-four-hour endurance race will begin, from 10 o'clock Friday night to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. The finish will be at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon instead of at 10 o'clock at night. This will allow the people who attend the races in the afternoon to witness the start of the biggest event on the program.

On account of making the start of the endurance run five hours earlier, it was found necessary to eliminate some of the other events. The racing committee decided to cut out three of the events, making the list of events seven, instead of ten.

The races which have been eliminated are the Minnesota middle distance championship, which was a twenty-five-mile race; the three-mile race for runabouts, and the three-mile event for fully equipped touring cars.

In order to save further time, it was decided to cut down the fifty-mile endurance race and make it a twenty-five-mile affair.

Eddie Bald, Rafello Mongini and C. A. Coey are now in the Twin Cities and it is possible that Frank Kullick, the winner of the Detroit race, will arrive this evening. These drivers added to the list of St. Paul and Minneapolis drivers make quite a formidable array of drivers.

The track at the fair grounds is in excellent condition. It has been scraped several times, and has been sprinkled every night for the past week, in order to make it hard.

FRIENDS BID EDDIE GOOD-BYE

"SO LONG EDDIE, HOW WE HATE TO SEE YOU GO," ALL SAID

OVER TWO HUNDRED AT TRAIN

Popular Ball Player Given a Great Ovation at the Train When He Leaves to Join St. Louis.

Few ball players have ever graduated from the minor leagues to the major leagues and received the marked attention shown Eddie Konetchy who left La Crosse last evening for Chicago, to go from there to Cincinnati to become a member of the St. Louis National league club. To see Eddie walking down the street with the small boys behind him, looking up at him with admiring eyes and awe expressed on their faces, reminded one of the drawing of Charles Dana Gibson's "The Champion."

When the time arrived for his departure, over two hundred admiring friends and fans—ladies and gentlemen—assembled at the Milwaukee depot to see him off and wish him good luck. His friends were with him from 10 o'clock to 11 o'clock; saw that he was comfortably located in the sleeper and provided with cigars and other things, and then with, "Be Good Eddie," "Work hard old boy," and other words of encouragement, left the train.

Eddie left with his new diamond ring on his finger, one of the flowers presented to him yesterday, in his buttonhole, his new clothes and several boxes of cigars.

THE DOPE BOX

Today is an off day over the league. Green Bay will be here tomorrow.

—o—

The fans experienced a gloomy feeling at the game yesterday. Konetchy's leaving was taken kind of hard. The big fellow surely was liked.

—o—

It begins to look as though Jones has anything in the league discounted at the pitching game. Can't see where anyone has it on him.

—o—

"Pink" Hawley will now have the opportunity to develop another great first baseman. Burke is a youngster and playing his first professional ball. In another two years maybe he will be going up.

—o—

A fast double play was pulled off in the fifth inning by the champs, in which Konetchy figured prominently, pulling a bad throw out of the dirt for the last putout.

—o—

Kroy's catch in the first inning was a beauty. If he had missed the ball Ed would have rounded the bases without trouble.

—o—

Jones had Wausau shooting ducks yesterday. Fourteen putouts were made on fly balls.

(By Lefty.)

It was Konetchy day at the big lot yesterday; everything was Konetchy from the start of the last game with Wausau to the finish. The young athlete received a glorious send off in his last appearance on the home field, and his pals celebrated his departure by handing the "lumber jacks" a package with nothing in it. The score was 4 to 0, and diminutive Jones was the real cause of the visitors' down fall, the elusive one allowing only two hits in the nine innings.

As for Eddie he played his usual strong game, but it seemed to the fans that he never played so well, his work around the bag bringing the fact vividly to the minds of his friends that it will be a hard proposition to fill up the gap. His first appearance at bat brought forth prolonged applause, and when he was handed the beautiful diamond ring and the large bouquet of roses by Paul W. Mahoney, while the members of the team were gathered around him, all the big fellow could say was, "Ladies and gentlemen, I thank you." He did respond though by rapping the ball solidly on the nose to deep center. Kroy saving a home run by a beautiful catch.

Drives in First Run.

It was Eddie who made the hit that drove in the first run for the champs. In the third inning Jones walked and went to second on Vogt's sacrifice. Bond flied out and Konetchy drove a single in left which scored Jones from second. It was the taking advantage of opportunities which made the runs for the champs. Zook pitched a good game, but clever base running turned the trick against him. In the fourth inning Medwtzky was struck on the arm and went to first, Moore sacrificing him to second. Hazel hit to Hille who couldn't field the ball in time to get him and all runners were safe. Hazel started to go down on the next throw and was caught between bases. While he was dodging Med came up from third. Brady threw to catch him and tossed the ball over behind the grand stand, Med reaching home and Hazel taking third. Hastings placed a short hit in right and Hazel scored.

The fourth run came in the next inning when Bond opened up with a single to right, advanced to second when Konetchy walked, took third on Cahill's sacrifice and scored on a long fly of Medwtzky's.

Was Fast Game.

The game was fast, being played in 1 hour and 20 minutes. Jones had Fergie's men completely at his will and safe hits were as scarce as hen's teeth. Wausau had one chance to score; that in the second inning when Fox drew a double and reached third on an infield out, but Jones easily retired Hille and Ferguson.

The score:

KIDNEY DISEASES CAUSE ONE-THIRD OF THE TOTAL DEATHS.

When the Kidneys fail to perform their functions properly by not straining out the poisonous waste matter from the blood as it passes through them, the poisons are carried by the circulation to every part of the body, deranging the different organs. This causes heart trouble, stomach trouble, sluggish liver and a host of other ills, all due to deranged Kidneys.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

corrects irregularities and cures Kidney and Bladder diseases in every form, tones up the whole system, and the diseases that have resulted from disordered Kidneys disappear, because the cause has been removed. Commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at the first sign of danger. Do not risk having Bright's Disease or Diabetes.

CURED OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Mr. Robert G. Burke, Elnora, Saratoga Co., N. Y., writes:—I am glad to have an opportunity of telling what magnificent results I have had from using FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE after having tried other advertised medicines and several physicians. Before I began it I had to get up from 12 to 20 times each night to relieve my bladder. I was all bloated up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired that I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. In fact, I was so badly used up that I had given up hope of living when I was urged by a friend to try FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. One 50-cent bottle worked wonders, and before I had taken the third bottle the superfluous flesh had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Kidney trouble. My friends were surprised that I was cured, as they all thought I was going to die. Every few days some one comes from miles away to learn the name of the wonderful medicine that cured me of Bright's Disease, and not one that has tried it has failed to be benefitted.

MCFARLAND-NUEARY TONIGHT

Great Little Fighters Will Clash at Milwaukee in 10 Rounds

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 28.—This is the "night of all nights in the year" for the Milwaukee fight bug. All winter and all spring we have had fights and then more fights, but never one that created the interest occasioned by the Neary-McFarland battle at the Hippodrome tonight. Brazen lunged rooters from the stock yards will be there five hundred strong, to yell for McFarland, and if need be, to heap maledictions on the referee. It is needless to say that every fight bug in Milwaukee who can beg, borrow or steal the price of admission will be on deck when the gong sounds.

It goes without saying that the fight will be a hard one. It will be fought on the "winner take all" basis, a system that generally brings about good results. Then there is the prestige that the winner will gain, and the opportunity of fighting for big purses on the coast. That is certainly worth fighting for, and the fans who are going to see the battle can rest assured that they will pass a joyous evening.

FACTS ABOUT FLOUR

Made White by Leaving Out the Part Which Helps Digest.

Modern methods of milling separate the parts of the wheat berry that contain the diastatic element, and furnish only the white flour made up almost entirely of starch.

One of the principle elements needed to digest this starch has been left out in the process, and therefore the person who eats much white bread is almost sure to have intestinal troubles, for the starch does not digest properly and must, of necessity, decay, and cause all sorts of trouble.

Grape-Nuts food, on the contrary, is made up of the entire wheat and barley, and the processes of digestion as shown in the human body, are followed as exactly as possible, in a mechanical way, by the use of moisture, time, and warmth. No chemicals or other ingredients are used, but simple methods scientifically arranged.

In this way the starch of the grain is transformed into grape-sugar, and the Grape-Nuts food, which appears in a granular form, shows on the outside of the little granules, glittering specks of this grape-sugar, which is not put on to the food from the outside, but is the result of the change of the starch into grape-sugar which works out to the surface, very much as the sap of the hickory or maple tree will frequently show in the shape of white sugar on the sawed-off ends of logs.

A handful of Grape-Nuts held to the light will show the little glittering particles of grape-sugar. It is naturally and scientifically predigested, therefore the food agrees with the weakest stomach. It must not be used in large quantities at one meal, for it is concentrated, and over-feeding of even the choicest food is not advisable.

Being perfectly cooked at the factory, the food can be served instantly with cream or good milk. There is a definite, distinct and undeniable gain in nervous energy, and vitality, when Grape-Nuts food is used. "There's a Reason."

SCHWEBACH BACK FROM BIG JUBILEE

LA CROSSE PRELATE STOPS FOR DAY IN MILWAUKEE

LA CROSSE DIOCESE GROWING

Smaller Since Superior Diocese Got Part of Territory, But Is Now Very Prosperous

The Rt. Rev. James Schwebach, bishop of the La Crosse diocese, was the guest of the Rev. N. D. Becker, rector of St. Mary's Catholic church, Milwaukee, for a few hours Wednesday. The bishop was in the city on his way home from attending the golden jubilee at Mount Calvary. Bishop Schwebach participated in the jubilee celebration by singing pontifical mass for the deceased benefactors of the Calvarian Capuchins, and the members of the parish at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

"The golden jubilee was a pleasant event," said Bishop Schwebach. "The program was well carried out and the attendance was large. I think I particularly enjoyed the Greek address by J. Bollenbeck. In addition to Archbishop Messmer and myself, Bishop H. J. Richter of Grand Rapids was present and he delivered the festival sermon.

"The La Crosse diocese is growing constantly and is in a flourishing condition. We have at present something like 110,000 souls in the diocese and of that number over 2,100 are Indians. Until the diocese of Superior was given a part of our territory, we had 121,000 members.

"The appointments for the year have not been made, but there will be quite a number of changes when they are announced. The ordination of priests usually occurs in June and we will have new men in our diocese to find places for beginning July 1."

BOYS GIVEN WARNING

Danger of Accidents From Stealing Car Rides

The street car company and the police department of the city is experiencing much trouble from small boys who insist on stealing rides on the cars coming in from the ball parks. The police have been unable to stop the practice as the boys wait for the cars without a policeman. The department asks that parents use their influence to keep the boys off the cars, as the danger of accident is great.

'SERMONS MUST GO' SAYS CHICAGO PROF.

MINISTER SAYS TO GO AMONG 'EM IS ONLY WAY

RESULTS BY PERSONAL WORK

Compares Sermons to Crusades, Which Served a Good Purpose and Are Out-of-Date Now

CHICAGO, Ill., June 28.—Sermons and discourses from the pulpit belong to the passing order—are out of date. Like the crusades, they have had their day in the religious world and now must give way before a new era in the manner of getting people into close association with the church. The new period in religion is personal work."

This is the belief of the Rev. Johnston Myers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church, expressed before an audience of more than 100 young divinity students at the University of Chicago. The occasion was Dr. Myers' second lecture of a series on the general topic of "Modern Evangelism."

He did not strike a hard blow at the sermon in itself, but he classified it as too antiquated to be of great use in the modern world. He pointed out as proof that it was not the failure of congregations to grow in size, the indifference with which church members attended services, and the competition of sermons with the Sunday paper that caused the new era.

People Tire of Preaching

"Mere preaching ceases to hold a large place in the work of the church nowadays," he declared. "People are tired of it. However, it is given still more or less prominent place and the clergy are still trying to preach; with a certain amount of success.

"Compared with the congregations of a few years ago, and considering the enlarged size of the neighborhoods from which they have to draw, there are few large congregations in the country today as large as those to which Beecher, Talmadge, and Spurgeon preached.

"There has been a great change. The preaching is as good, it is true, and the preachers now are as great as they used to be. But this is not the age of the sermon. Ours is the age of personal work. Considering the cheapness of printing and the wide circulation of printed good literature, it is a marvel that people come to hear the preacher now.

"I believe they only come out from a feeling of a sense of duty. It is not because they are interested, but to please us who do the preaching. The real reason sermons are going out of date is because we fail to get definite results from the sermon.

"It is always an individual who leads a person to religion. This is shown by the small number of converts."

MILITIA WILL MARCH

ANNUAL TRY-OUT OF LOCAL GUARDS

Company M Will Go Into a Camp Near Range

Under the leadership of Captain Charles H. Rawlinson, the first regular annual road march of company M wil be held tomorrow afternoon.

Leaving the company baracks on Fifth and Main street the soldiers will march to te hcmopany M range several miles east of the city. Here tents will be pitched and camp will be made for the night. On Sunday morning, the regular target practice wil be held after which the return march march to the city will be commenced.

Members of the company will wear the khaki uniforms and leggings. Besides carrying nine-pound Krag-Jorgenson rifles and the cartridge belts with the usual alowance of ammunition, each man wil also be required to carry the regular army equipment, borne by soldiers during campaign marches.

This consists of a roll, haversack and canteen. The roll contains half of a shelter tent, a rubber blanket, one woolen blanket, one towel, soap and toilet articles, extra clothing, one tent pole in two sections, and five small tent stakes. It weighs about eight pounds.

This is the first time the company has made this march, but company officers say that hereafter it will be a regular thing. The march is looked upon with interest by other companies of Wisconsin militia, who are contemplating the installation of a simalar practice

CHAIRMA.. OF WHARVES COMMITTEE IS FOR IT

ARC LIGHTS ON LEVEE, ALSO

Special Meeting of Council Next Week will in all Probability Take Favorable Aaction

Alderman Harry Palmer, as chairman of the wharf committee, is to undertake the engineering through the council, the ordinance providing for the construction of a modern landing place for small steamers and launches.

Mr. Palmer stated to the press at the close of the council meeting last night that a special meeting of the council would be called next Tuesday evening, and that he would bring up the question of a new landing place. He believes there is a crying need of a public dock and that an arc light should also be placed there for the benefit of small boat owners.

This is the first work before Alderman Palmer's committee for some time and since the organization of the La Crosse Motor Boat club and its agitation for a public landing, Mr. Palmer proposes to undertake the task and secure the aid of the council in the new proposition.

The wharves and finance committee and city attorney have the petition of the Motor Boat club in charge.

Princess Lace the Season's Favorite. The Back Buttoned Blouse.

Princess lace is one of the leaders among the finer mesh laces. It is an applique lace made on a foundation of fine brussels net, upon which are applied in a suitable design honiton and point lace braids in different sizes.

The rumor comes from Paris that the buttoned down the back frock must go, and here's good news for long suffering husbands.

Striking contrasts in colors are seen. Navy blue with a touch of apple green and buff is a suggestion for a smart frock, the main color a rich deep blue.

Pale covert cloth with touches of black satin in trimmings is popular for the tailor suit.

Gray in both light and dark shades is much used, while even in taffetas the rather strange but decidedly popular combination of gray and brown, either in stripes or plaids or changeable tones, is seen.

While many fancy silks and radiums, messalines and louisines are displayed in the shops, fancy has declared quite strongly for taffeta, rajah and foulard, with, of course, the omnipresent pongee.

All white will be the dominant costume for midsummer, but for spring, which means until July, colors will be more worn. The cotton voiles have taken such a strong hold on every one that the majority of costumes are being made up in their colors. Voiles will be worn for shirt waist suits as well as dressy frocks all summer.

The happy boy whose picture you see can indulge in all sorts of active sports without consideration of his clothes. He is wearing overalls of linen khaki. Denim is the traditional material for these garments, but the khaki is even better.

RELIEF FOR HUSBANDS!

(Milwaukee Journal).

Joy to the world! The millenium is on the wing!

Poor, downtrodden, henpecked hubby may once more raise his head from the dust of shame where proud woman has relegated it.

For wife's gown no longer buttons down the back!

This far-reaching reform was brought about by the Dressmakers' Society of America. The society says that the gown with buttons in front is the only possible thing for the fashionably dressed woman of 1907. This likewise applies to the shirtwaist—even to the peekaboo. It all came about as a result of the society's spring convention. The society decides on the rules and regulations of dress for each season. There must be a change each year. Otherwise last year's gown would do for this season. And that would mean starvation to the dressmakers. When the society met a few days ago it found itself almost exhausted of anything to change. Then some one thought of the buttons.

The Dressmakers' society created one other startling innovation. This is the rapid fire, lightning change street and party gown.

In one flick of a lamb's tail the gown can be transformed at any time or any place, from a short skirted street affair into the most elaborate, long-tailed ball costume one's heart could wish for.

The train is detachable. When on the street milady carries the train in her pocket. When she suddenly thinks of that forgotten party engagement she just whisks into a doorway, pulls out the train from the side-track, and couples it on. Then she is ready for the next waltz. The train is equipped with buttons. The bottom of the skirt with button-holes.

The lawyer doesn't have to be much of a mathematician to sum up a case.

ENFORCE IT, OR REPLACE IT

(Milwaukee Sentinel.)

If the anti-lobby law is to be violated with impunity as seems to be the case it ought to be wiped off the statute books in short order. It is mighty bad practice—in fact it is the worst possible practice—to put a law upon the statute books and then permit it to be flagrantly and openly violated. There is absolutely no excuse for such a condition.

How can the people expect their laws to be respected if there is no effort made to enforce them? There is, in fact, plenty of effort made to enforce some of them, but it seems to be the fact that little or no attention is given to the infraction of ohers.

There have been complaints made on the floor of the legislature openly by members that the same old button-holing and lobbying has been going on in the assembly chamber that was the practice prior to the passage of the anti-lobby law and yet no hand was raised or the slightest action taken to stop the pracice.

The question is not whether the anti-lobby law as it stands on the books is a good law or not. It is the law, and good or bad, it should be enforced. If it is a good law, it should stand on the books; if it is a bad law, it ought to be repealed, but it should be enforced anyway.

It is not for any officer to decide whether a law should be enforced or not—it is for the officer or officers to see that the laws are carried out, and they have no discretion whatever lodged in them.

READY FOR THE BIG MERGER

Man Who Organized Candy Trust Leaves Appleton Well Satisfied With His Work

APPLETON, Wis., June 28.—All print paper mills of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan soon will be controlled by one company, manufacturers having held a meeting in New York last week and in Milwaukee yesterday with a view to perfecting plans for bringing about the mammoth single ownership system.

For seven months John J. Hanrahan of New York, representative of Dean & Shipley of New York, has been in Appleton and other paper manufacturing points making preliminary plans for the biggest deal in the history of Wisconsin paper making. Last week Friday Mr. Hanrahan returned to New York and before leaving he informed a close friend here that he had accomplished his purpose, intimating that his portion of the work of amalgamating the newspaper mills of this section of the country into one company, had been completed.

Paper Makers Keep Secret

Print paper manufacturers are exceedingly reticent and refuse absolutely to talk on the proposition, although it has been an open secret for many weeks that Mr. Hanrahan's visit to Appleton and other paper making centers was for the purpose of laying plans for the the syndicate, which will involve some millions of dollars' worth of property. Several weeks ago when newspaper representative attempted to interview Mr. Hanrahan, all that could be elicited from him was: "If there is anything to say concerning my activities here I want the paper mill men to say it; I have nothing to say."

John J. Hanrahan is the man who several years ago perfected the candy syndicate in the west and also engineered the amalgamation of the big brewery companies of several of the eastern states. He is a man of wide experience in this line of work.

Like Eastern Syndicate

Although all of the Wisconsin print mills were not represented at the meeting held in New York last week, many manufacturers were there and eastern paper men were invited into the meeting. The syndicate planned for the western mills is based on much the same lines as that of the eastern, the International Paper company, and when completed will include practically all of the newspaper mills of this section of the country. It is understood that a Menasha man is booked for the presidency, and that headquarters will be established in Milwaukee or Chicago.

"There is nothing that I can give out for publication today concerning the prospective newspaper mill syndicate," said a man prominently connected with a local paper mill this afternoon. He admitted that during the last few months he had heard more or less talk concerning the syndicate and declared he knew of Mr. Hanrahan's long visit here being for the purpose of laying the foundation for the amalgamation.

For Single Ownership

A single ownership company is the plan, as was learned from other sources and there seems to be little doubt but that this will be brought about soon. Nothing could be learned of the meeting said to be in progress in Milwaukee.

BANDITS IN SWAMP

Outagamie Posse Fails to Catch Postoffice Robbers

APPLETON, Wis., June 28.—The two bandits who held up Sheriff Michael M. Lockery Wednesday morning are still at large in the Relien swamp near Dale. The sheriff has secured the assistance of a number of farmers and the swamp will be guarded until the men are starved out.

The two men were last seen shortly after 7 o'clock last night, when they made an effort to get over to the Rat river marsh, which covers thousands of acres and where they could remain in hiding for a long time. They were driven back into the Relien swamp after a running fight. The two bandits have big revolvers and are known to have plenty of ammunition.

It is now positively known that the large packages the men were carrying contained large sheets of uncanceled postage stamps. Word was received this afternoon that the postoffice at Embarrass, in the northwest corner of Waupaca county, was robbed about ten days ago, and it is believed the men did the job.

SHOW DAY IS NOW DRAWING NEARER

GREAT CROWDS EXPECTED IN LA CROSSE THE FOURTH

MANY SPECIAL TRAINS COME

La Crosse & Southeastern Will Run Four Passenger Specials on the National Holiday

It is not only the impatient youth who is saying "Only a few more days to wait!" as the Barnum & Bailey circus looms up in near perspective. It is a safe bet to say that even the "grown-ups" find themselves unconsciously anticipating circus day; the blood runs faster, imagination has freer play, and memory, with a little trick that is peculiarly its own, brings back other days, when the sawdust arena was the fulfillment of dreams of an earthly Paradise, and the clown was the most envied of men.

The circus has changed, just as the men and women and children who saw it a quarter of a century ago have changed. The circus of our "daddies" would fall far short of pleasing even the younger generation of today. The man who sighs for the "one-ring circus of other days" does not realize how primitive the best of the circuses was in those days until he sees a single-ring, cross-roads circus of the present. Then he knows that his conception of things has grown with the growth of the modern ring show and that after all, the circus of today is best.

It is a fact, however, that the best features of the old-time circuses have been retained—at least in their general texture. There is still the airy, fairy lady rider, though her tarletan has given way to long frocks and she wears a picture hat on horse back; there are acrobats—and plenty of pretty girls among them, too—just as there were in other days—but evening costumes have, to a great extent, taken the place of tights, and the entrance of the modern acrobatic family into the arena is a dazzling revelation of modish gowns and ravishing wraps; there is the trapeze performer, but he is no longer content to show the power of his biceps by hanging by one arm for an incredible period, while twisting himself into a thousand shapes, "skinning the cat," or risking a tumble and brain-concussion by suspending himself, head downward, by his toes. Nowadays, the trapeze artist is an aerialist—a mid-air vaulter—who (like the Imperial Viennese Troupe with the Barnum & Bailey circus) makes long flights through space and lands upon the opposite bars or in another's hands with the ease, grace and certainty of the winged men of mythology. And so on, through all the varied acts of the circus—the foundation of the old-time show is there, but a new superstructure has been built upon it.

The Barnum & Bailey circus, which will be here Thursday, July 4th, is, it is declared, a leader in this adaptation of old ideas in the arenic world to the more sensational demands of the present. This is accentuated by the near approach of circus day, and the interest that the coming of the show has aroused. This interest is undoubtedly vitalized by the fact that while the acts of the old-time circus that represent the survival of the fittest will be in evidence, there will, it is said, be so much that is new and timely as to practically constitute a revolution in arenic entertainment. "Peace," a strictly up-to-date representation of the last days of the Russo-Japanese war; the latest things in acrobatic, equestrian and aerial endeavor; new things in trained animal displays; races that are really racing contests; sensational departures in which daring women shoot through space or turn somersaults in automobiles, bicyclists who whirl in mid-air on their wheels and daring champions who fly through space in startling feats of ski-sailing—these are some of the modern things that the Barnum & Bailey management promises to make known, and which are calculated to show the difference between the circus of memory and the circus of fact.

The Oyster and the Cockle.

If the average person were asked what was the strongest living thing it is probable that he would name the lion or some such huge denizen of the forest and would not even think of the unassertive bivalve. But so great is the power possessed by the oyster that to open it a force equal to 1,319.5 times the weight of its shell-less body is required. The shell-less limpet pulls 1,984 times its own weight when in the air and about double when measured in the water. The Mediterranean cockle (Venus vurrucosa) can exert a pulling power equal to 2,071 times the weight of its own body. If the human being possessed strength as great in proportion as that the average man would be able to lift the enormous weight of 2,976,000 pounds, pulling in the same degree as the limpet. And if the man pulled in the same proportionate degree as the cockle he would sustain a weight of no less than 3,106,500 pounds.

POLICE AFTER WHEEL THIEVES

PEOPLE RIDE BICYCLES AND LEAVE THEM STAND

IS NOW A POPULAR TRICK

Police Have Rounded Up Four at Central Station for Which no Owners Can be Found

Reported bicycle robberies are causing the police department no end of trouble. Practically every day some one reports to the station that a bicycle has been stolen, and when the officers go to the trouble of looking up the wheel the owner will report that he has found his wheel. Chief Byrne says that it has turned out that the wheels are not being stolen, but people are riding off with them and leaving them in different parts of the city. He will prosecute anyone found doing this.

There are four wheels at the central station now and the owners can not be located.

IF YOU KNEW DAD!

It is on Decoration day that my pa swells with pride
And talks in words of fire of the gallant men who died
A-saving of their country in the dark days of the war—
He seems the bravest mortal that a feller ever saw.
Why, you'd think he'd been a colonel or a general, maybe,
And in the very fore rank of his cheering soldiers he
Had won a hundred battles, perhaps been wounded bad!
But, no, you wouldn't think so if you knew dad!

Ma says, "Pa's brave enough, I 'low, but he's so mortal slow
That when he'd got his courage up there was no war, you know."
And pa looks doggers and remarks, "Matilda, you must own
You begged me not to go because you was 'fraid to stay alone.
You know," adds pa, quite proudly, "I'd have enlisted, too,
But you said it was my duty plain to stay and care for you."
Of course I wasn't living then. I only wish I had.
But I have my opinion, for I know dad!

AMONG THE FUN MAKERS.

GETTING HOT.

I asked an old farmer who had come into Brooklyn from his farm with a load of vegetables to sell if the people out his way were waking up to the Presidential campaign, and he answered with great heartiness:

"You bet they are! Yes, sir-e-e, things are getting hot down my way."

"Folks taking a great interest, eh?"

"Heaps and heaps. Did you hear about Jim Wheeler calling Bill Smith a liar?"

"No."

"Yes, sir, called him a liar right to his face and then spit on his hands to back it up. Hear about Jim Sawtelle?"

"No."

"He got so excited talking politics that he put a hot pipe in his pocket and burned his coat-tails off. You must have heard about Tom Bowens and Elisha Jones?"

"I don't think I have."

"They have been friends for years. They were at the postoffice the other night and got to telling who they wanted for the next President, when Tom speaks up and says:

"'Elisha, you are an infernal liar!'

"'And you are a jackass on wheels!' says Elisha, and then they pulled off their coats, put chips on their shoulders and dared each other to knock 'em off. They have agreed not to speak to each other ag'in as long as they live. Then we've had two cows die of hollerhorn, had one mad dog running around and a bull got loose and gored an old mare to death.

Put a hot pipe in his pocket and burned his coat tails off.

Getting hot? You bet your life it is, and we are getting ready to save the country or bust!"

WHEN EVELYN WENT WADING.

I saw her wading in the brook—
She did not know that I was nigh.
I smiled at every step she took,
There wading in the sparkling brook.

Her shoes and stockings she forsook,
And held her dainty skirts knee high.
I saw her wading in the brook—
She did not know that I was nigh.

SOMETHING MORE.

He was a newspaper man, with pencil and notebook in hand, and as he entered the office of the railroad President he said:

"Sir, I see by the reports of the Bureau of Statistics at Washington that during the last six months there have been 55,035 people killed and injured on the railroads of the United States."

"Something like that, I believe," was the reply.

"There have been over one hundred head-on collisions, due to reckless running."

"Yes, the boys have whooped her up pretty well."

"And about the same number of rear-end collisions, due to misreading orders."

"Yes, but the boys get tired of the monotony, you know."

"Forty trains have been derailed while running at dangerous speed," continued the reporter.

"About forty, I think. The boys got in a hurry."

"And over one hundred train hands have been killed in the six months."

"Yes, our train men do get giddy now and then."

"Forty of the accidents were brought about through direct disobedience of orders, sir."

"No doubt. Some of the engineers think they can run the old thing better than a train dispatcher."

"It is a terrible state of affairs, Mr. President. Human life would be safer on a stone barge at sea."

"Yes, I think so."

"And what are you going to do about it?"

"I? What can I do? I am simply elected to this position to make a five per cent. dividend for the stockholders. You'll have to see some of the switchmen down in the yards and tell them that these accidents ought to stop. Good-day, sir. Oh! by the way, here is a telegram

Entered the office of the railroad president.

saying there has been another collision on our Road, with forty killed and sixty hurt. Might add those to your figures to round 'em out a little."

WHAT FATHER THOUGHT.

Mrs. Proud—What did you think of Myrtle's graduation essay?

Mr. Proud—Excellent. No one would think that Myrtle chewed gum and slapped her little brother, would they, dear?

NOT SO SHORT.

Wifey (sighing)—Oh! dear, I've still got to plan my bathing suit. I wish I could get some good suggestions.

Hubby—I'll give you one. Suppose you build the bottom of it a little closer to sea-level this year.

And finds, unhappy man,
The most expensive article
To be her coat of tan.

AN INVENTIVE GENIUS.

"What makes him so unpopular?"

"He fixed his lawn mower so you have to drop a dime in the slot to make it go."

THINGS WERE ALL RIGHT.

"You will remember," said an ex-soldier who remained with the sanitary squad in Cuba for two years after the close of the Spanish war, "we were left behind to clean up the Cuban towns, and I can tell you we had a job of it. Not alone were the streets in horrible condition, but nineteen out of twenty houses were fever-breeding nests. In one case, where the proprietor was ordered to move things out and give us a chance to whitewash, he asked of me:

"'But why go to all this trouble?'

"'To make things clean,'" I replied.

"'But why make things clean?'

"'To stamp out the fever.'

"'But why stamp out the fever?'

"'To make this a healthy town.'

"'But why make it a healthy town?'

"I cut him off by ordering him to hustle out the things, and after he had reluctantly cleared the place he turned to me with tears in his eyes and said:

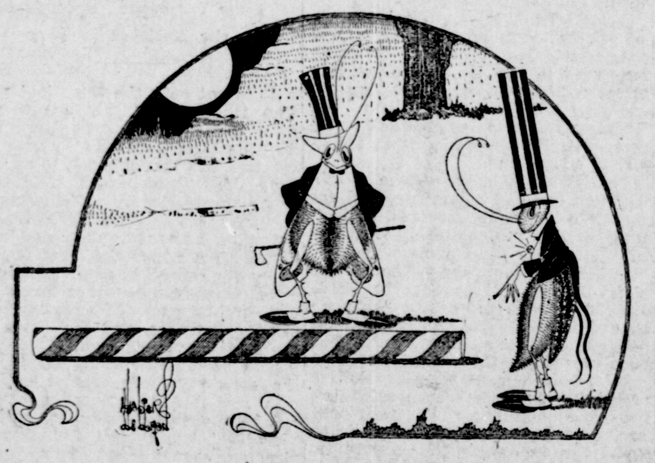

"'Senor, it is hard—it is hard. You have conquered us, and we must do as you say, but we feel the humiliation. Presently one of my friends will come along and sniff and snuff and ask: 'Where are the smells? I can answer him nothing. Then another will come and ask: 'Where is the fever?' I can answer him nothing. Then the doctor will come and ask where are the sick, and the gravedigger will come and look at the house reproachfully, and all I can do will be to go out and tell them that I am sorry but the Senor Americanos have made laws that I must be clean and healthy and no longer have any enjoyment in life!"

I ordered him off to hustle things out.

THE CIRCUS.

Now a thrill of glad excitement agitates
the youthful breast,
And the boy with half a dollar counts
himself supremely blest,
While the prodigal who squanders dimes
and pennies as they come
Works with energy untiring to acquire the needful sum.

Boys whose records have been shady in the very recent past
Are upon their good behavior—much too good, indeed, to last—
Cheerfully run on their errands, mind
what's said without a frown;
Just the usual condition when the circus
comes to town.

VACATION TIME.

Soon off to the country will flock in a hoard
The city folks, haughty and proud,
And the farmer will wish, when they've crowded his board,
That his wife hadn't boarded the crowd.

ALL IN THE WORD.

The young man who had gone to New York from Georgia to secure a place and to carve out his fortune had made a good start and come home on a brief visit. Among his friends he met Deacon Hazlett, who had expressed a great interest in his going, but who now was passing him by with a nod when the young man called:

"See here, Deacon, haven't you got a hand-shake for me?"

"I'm afraid not," replied the good man with a solemn shake of the head.

"But what's the matter? You were in favor of my going to New York."

"Yes."

"And you gave me lots of good advice."

"Yes, but it seems that you did not follow it. I am sorry, James—very sorry."

"You must have heard something, Deacon?"

"Alas, yes."

"Something derogatory to me. What is it?"

"I heard that you were running a typewriter in that great and wicked city, and it is only a question of time when trouble must come of it. You may tell me that she is not like other girls and that there is no cause for fear, but——"

"Say, Deacon," interrupted the young man, "I do run a typewriter."

"Ahem!"

"But it's a machine—not a girl. The girls who run the machines are called typists. I am not running a typist who runs a typewriter. Lordy, but it would take my whole week's salary to rustle one of them out to a dinner."

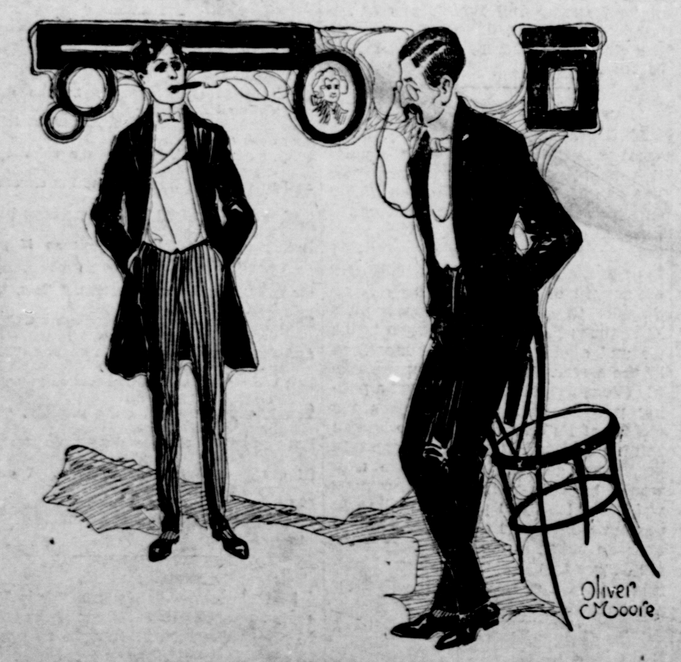

"Then, James, if there is a difference

I believe I will shake hands with you.

between a typewriter and a typist, and one is a machine and the other a blond young woman, and you are running the machine instead of the blond, I believe I will shake hands with you and congratulate you on your success thus far."

A daughter is, in nine cases out of ten, the reflection of her mother. The training of the girl of fifteen is shown in the woman of fifty.

Occasionally you meet a blab who amounts to a good deal, in spite of the rule that a man who is always talking cannot succeed.

When you hear some one exclaim: "There is no such thing as friendship," you may depend upon it that he has been doing something to offend his friends.

A word to the wise may be sufficient—but a good deal depends upon the word.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Wheat opened considerably under last night's close, September lacking only a fraction of bolling up from $1 to 98. July closed a fraction over theopening, which represents a metrial loss from yesterday. The sentiment was bearish, and all lines felt the repressing movement.

Last summer a German went to England to spend a holiday with a country gentleman. At the small village station he was met by a young groom, of whom he enquired: "Are you from Captain Brown's?" "Yes, sir," was the reply. "I've bought the dogcart for you." "Vat" exclaimed the German. "You think me a dog! You vish me to ride in ze dog cart! Nevaire."—Ex.

"So you quarreled with George?" said one young woman. "Yes, answered the other, with much pathos. "Is you engagement broken off?" "Oh, no, I told him I never wanted to see his face again, and he said that he would leave me forever. But we didn't go so far a to break off our engagement."

OPTIMISM FILLS FARMERS' BREASTS

CROPS THIS SEASON WILL BE LARGER THAN LAST

CORN AND GRAIN DOING WELL

Farmers Say the Strawberry Crop Will Be Best in Years and Predict a Five-Cent Price.

Crop experts around La Crosse declare the season's crop outlook the best in years. All believe that the crop this year will exceed last year's by ten per cent. It is reported that more people in the vicinity of La Crosse have taken to growing tobacco upon hearing the favorable report of those who tried the new project last year. It is reported that the late spring had no effect on the tobacco and already many of the growers have transplanted the weed which is getting along as well as could be expected.

Geo. Jensen, a well known farmer living about five miles from the city in Smith's Coulee in talking on this year's crops said:

"The crops are looking fine and unless frost interferes the crops will be the best in years. Tame hay is rather thin, but may still come out and with enough rain the prophesied scarcity will be overcome with an excellent crop.

"Barley was injured slightly in the rain storm Monday night, laying most of the crop flat on the ground, but this will come up again with good weather."

Wm. Layman, in speaking of the crops in the vicinity of West Salem, and in the Bostwick Valley, states that the crops are coming along fine. Everything, with the exception of corn, is looking good and is up to the crop of last year. In speaking of the corn crop he said:

"The corn is about two weeks late, but is looking first class and by the regular time the harvest will exceed that of last year."

Sam Woif, who is one of the heavest hay haulers in Smith's Coulee, said, in regard to the crops this year, that they were in good shape. He also believes the crop this year will exceed that of last year.

Vegetable growers seem to be the only ones that have suffered from the late spring, but the crops are now getting along fast and it is believed the prices on vegetables will drop within ten days to the usual prices this time of the year.

County Supervisor W. A. Bradley of West Salem says, in behalf of the strawberry growers, that the berries this year will be the best in many years and he believes that the price will go down to five cents a box in about ten days. The berries this year are of a better quality than in the last few years and will be larger this year and sweeter.

BACK FROM WEDDING

Frederick-Ballintyne Affair Is Most Attractive

One of the most beautiful weddings ever celebrated in Grant county was witnessed at Bloomington Wednesday evenin gwhen Mr. Alexander A. Frederick of Prairie du Chien, brother of Mr. George B. Fredericks, advertising manager of the Park store, and Miss Grace Ballintyne of Bloomington, were united in matrimony. Over two hundred were present at the ceremony which was performed at the home of the brides' mother, Mrs. James B. Ballintyne.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, a profusion of cut roses, ferns, smilax and carnations being strewn promisciously over the home, while a large bower of roses was arranged in the front bay window, the couple standing here while the impressive words were spoken. The Rev. A. Fuller of Ashland performed the ceremony precisely at 8 o'clock.

The bridal couple was attended by Mr. George B. Fredericks of La Crosse and Miss Maude Waltrus of White Water. The bridal couple entered the parlor from the hall, through a path created by twelve pages in evening dress and twelve flower girls. The path was strewn with roses. The bride was given away by her mother. After the wedding a course dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick departed on the evening train for a wedding tour through the east. On their return Prairie du Chien will be their home.

Both the bride and groom are well known and popular in their respective communities.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

The burglar's wife was in the witness box and the prosecuting attorney was conducting a vigorous cross-examination.

"Madam, you are the wife of this man?"

"Yes."

"How did you come to contract a matrimonial alliance with such a man?"

"Well," said the witness sarcastically, "I was getting old and had to choose between a lawyer and a burglar."

The cross-examination ended there.—Sketch.

There are many symptoms of love sickness; you can first detect it on a boy by the way he gets his hands clean when he washes them.

A son may, by contact with the rough world, sometimes outlive his early home influences—a daughter rarely does.

NORTH SIDE

BOSS BARBERS CALL ON N. S. SHOPS

BARBERS DO NOT WANT FIFTEEN CENT RULE

MATTSDORF STANDS PAT

May Secure Agreement With Some Shops Regardless of Others

Although it was announced a short time ago that the barbers had given up their attempts to place the price of shaves on the norh side at 15 cents, this was a "bum" steer.

A large delegation of the "boss" barbers has recently called upon the proprietors of several of the shops on the north side in an attempt to reach some agreement and endeavor to boost the price.

They also called on Charles Mattsdorf and made an ineffectual effort to get him to sign the new scale.

The credit or blame for keeping the price at what it ought to be is largely due to Mattsdorf, the only man on the north side that refused to raise his price last time the effort was made.

Whether or not they will try to frame up a deal among some of the barbers to charge 15 cents, regardless of what others do, is not known, but it is regarded probable that no change will be made.

TWO MORE TO LEAVE

Light Company Employes Resent Recent Changes

Two more men at the Wisconsin Light and Power company's plant on the north side handed in their resignations to take effect June 1st.

They are Olaf Moe, fireman, and Joseph Tersey, a stoker. These, together with the chief engineer and his two assistants, makes a total of five that leave on the first of next month.

Chief Engineer Williams will say nothing as to the reason for the resignations but intimates that they are due to the recent change in the management of the plan.

CAPTAIN HOBSON TO BE A FARMER

PREFERS PLOWING LAND TO PLOWING THE SEA

GIVES UP HIS BIG NAVY IDEAS

Warrior Becomes Interested in Agriculture and Story of the Change Is an Interesting One

Washington Bureau of
The La Crosse Tribune.
Washington, D. C., June 28.

Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, erstwhile apostle of a billion-dollar navy, has changed his mind.

The gallant captain has decided to go in for agriculture instead of war. No more will he worry himself and the rest of the country with the specter of Yellow Peril and Japanese menace. He is going to quit the sea and devote himself to farming.

The fact is that the captain has discovered the United States. He lived on the water so long that he got a notion that it was the most important thing in the world, simply because it was the biggest. And the story of how he discovered his mistake is curious and characteristic.

When Captain Hobson broke into congress he set about to solidify himself with the constituency that had elected him, down in Alabama. He decided on a scheme that has been the admiration and envy of every congressman from a rural district ever since. This is what he did.

He borrowed from the department of agriculture four men, specialists in various agricultural phases: Dr. J. A. Bonsteel, in charge of soil surveys; Messrs. Wilson of the Bureau of Plant industry, Lancaster of the bureau of road construction, Miller of forestry, and finally, he enlisted Director Duggar of the Alabama experiment station. With this aggregation of talent he toured his district, held meetings at towns, villages and school houses, invited the people in, and had his experts tell them all about their soil, the crops they ought to raise, the mistakes they were making, the modern improvements in agriculture, the ways to make easy money with "side lines" on the farm—in short, he held an agricultural institute in every township. The discussions were strictly practical, confined to local conditions, which the scientists studied and explained.

The people came first by hundreds, then by thousands. The tour developed into a triumph. Nothing like it was ever known in that section. The people have gone wild on the subject. They can't get documents from the department fast enough. They have discovered that Hobson is the only true friend the downtrodden farmer ever had, anyhow. He has promised to tour the district each year for them, and to devote himself hereafter to agriculture's interest.

When he was elected to congress, Hobson thought his mission was to build a big navy. He got a written indorsement from every member of the Alabama delegation for a place on the naval committee. Well, he has released all his colleagues, given up aspirations for the naval committee, decided that he wants to be on agriculture instead—which he can get—and will become an expert in plowing the soil rather than the sea. He has discovered the science of agriculture.

TEST A NEW BULLET

HOXIE MUSHROOM TEARS LARGE HOLE

Insures Instant Death to Deer and Large Game

George H. Steenberg of Chicago, agent for the Hoxie Mushroom bullet, made a striking demonstration of the Hoxie bullet to some local sportsmen yesterday afternoon at the bottoms near Gund's brewery.

A quarter of beef was placed on the bank and bullets of ordinary its own size, while the Hoxie mushroom bullet were fired into the meat, and through the bone and skin. The ordinary bullet left a hole only its own size, while the Hoxey mushroom bullet left a hole in the flesh large enough for a man to insert both fists. It was evident to all those seeing the demonstration that when a deer or other large game was hit with one of these bullets it meant instant death and that the animal would not be able to run several miles as is the case with ordinary bullets. The demonstration showed that the skin of the animal was not torn to pieces, and insuring instant and merciful death.

Where the Hoxie bullet is used the smaller calibers do better work than the large calibers of the ordinary bullet, thus having a tendency to do away with heavy guns and ammunition. The missle is on the order of the "Dum Dum" bullet.

ORGANIZATION IS GREAT ESSENTIAL

SECRETARY ROCK URGES UNITY AMONG THE GROCERS

PICNIC DATE IS UNDECIDED

Committee Is Unable to Agree Upon a Place or Date and Matter Is Re-referred.

At the meeting of the Retail Grocers association last night, R. T. Rock of Superior, state secretary of the Wisconsin Retail Grocers association delivered an address on what should be expected of the retailers of the state.

He opened his address by briefly outlining the benefits that are to be derived from the organization and gave as an illustration what had been done in the local organization in regard to the credit system and protecting the retailers against short weights. Those reforms, he said, were only accomplished through organization.

Going over the work of the state association he said that the state organization can do nothing without the co-operation of the retailers throughout the state. There are 18,000 grocers in Wisconsin and if each one would contribute $1 the amount of annual dues, great work could be done. He said that at present there was $74 paid to the state association, while with this amount the retail grocers all over the state ask what the association is going to do for them this year.

In closing he said that the only way to accomplish anything is to stand together and unless this is done nothing can be expected from the Wisconsin Retail Grocers association.

Can't Decide Picnic Date.

At the close of the address by Mr. Rock, the report of the committee in charge of the annual picnic was read but the members were unable to decide upon a location. Some wished to go by train and others wanted to go by river. The committee recommended the parks at Dresbach and Galesville, but some wanted to go to Prairie du Chien. Finally the matter was referred to the committee for further investigation and a report will be made to the board of directors at a later date.

TRY TO SAVE THE PEARL INDUSTRY

COMMISSION TO GO DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI

WILL MAKE TRIP IN LAUNCH

Every Bayou, Stream and Sandbank to Arkansas River Will Be Looked Over

To save the Mississippi valley pearl button industry is the object of searching investigation to be carried on this summer along the Mississippi river by a specially appointed government commission. Within the past few years the pearl button business has grown to very large proportions along the upper Mississippi valley.

The large quantities of mussel shells found in the sand bars and river beds are utilized in the making of the blanks from which the buttons are fashioned. But so great has the demand been for these shells that it has been discovered that the supply is running short. Factories in Burlington and other Mississippi river cities are already shipping many carloads of other shells from other points of the country and the blanks and buttons are shipped to Germany and other foreign countries for finishing. The contingency that has presented itself, in the gradual failure of the supply of shells, means a serious menace to a lucrative industry.

Congressman Dawson of Iowa, in whose district the pearl button business is especially well developed, secured the passage of a bill in the last congress, appropriating sufficient funds to provide for a commission to carefully examine into the habits and conditions of the mussel, and to determine whether there was any way by which their propagation might be increased.

At the head of this commission was placed Prof Paul Bartsch of Burlington, who has just left for St. Paul where he will join his commission and then start for a tour of the river in a government launch. It is intended to visit every bayou and stream, every sand bank, and slough, as far south as the Arkansas river with the object of ascertaining the customs and habits of the mussel. In an interview Professor Bartsch said:

"The difficulties of artificial propagation of the mussel have been underestimated. They may be overcome but at present we do not know sufficient of the animal and its habits to be able to form a definite opinion. It is a very simple thing to turn millions of fish eggs into fish. But the eggs of the mussel passes through another stage before it becomes a mussel. After being hatched it is a parasite while attached itself to fish. Now while one mussel may produce 60,000 eggs perhaps, few will hatch.
